Lawyer in the Case Reprimanded
for Being Ten Minutes Late
This Morning — Case Against Boston & Northern Street Railway

Lawyer M. W. Cohen, counsel for the defense in the case of Rabbi Elias Wolfson against his son-in-law Louis Price, was severely reprimanded by Judge Marcus Morton when he entered the civil session of the superior court ten minutes late this morning. The court informed Mr. Cohen that there was no reason for him being ten minutes late and asked him what excuse he had to offer. Mr. Cohen said he did not realize that it was so late and said he was sorry to have kept the court waiting. "That doesn't cure matters," was the court's response.

Mr. Wolfson, who was on the stand at the time of adjournment yesterday afternoon, took the stand at the opening of this morning's session and lawyer Cohen resumed his cross-examination of the witness.

"When you sent Mr. Freeman to see Mr. Price in reference to your daughter's marriage what did you say?"
"The question was objected to by Mr.
Pratt and excluded by the court."
"Did you send Mr. Freeman to see Mr. Price?" asked Mr. Cohen.

"Yes,"

"Where did you first meet Mr.
Price?"

"Mr. Price came to my home. Mr.
Freeman introduced him to me and he met my daughter for the first time. I never told him what I would do for him. After Mr. Freeman said he had seen Mr. Price about the marriage to my daughter I said that if they would like one another and agree to have each other I would give my consent."
"Did you say at any time that you would be willing to spend between $500 and $700?"

"I said it would cost me about $100 or $500 to furnish everything for the wedding. I didn't promise him anything at all."

"Isn't it a custom among your people to give a daughter what is called a dowry when she is about to get married?"

"It isn't a custom unless a man is able to."

"You wanted your daughter to marry
Mr. Price?"

"Yes."

Were Laid Before the Insurrecto
Leader at His Camp Today

MADERO'S CAMP, west of Bustillos, Mexico, April 11, via Laredo, April 12
—Peace overtures, for the first time since the Mexican insurrection began, are laid before Francisco Madero, Jr., the insurrecto leader, at his camp west of Bustillos Hacienda today. The result is still pending with a prospect that he will either reject or affirm the proposals within a few days. The preliminaries are unofficial but are looked upon as possibly opening a way for more direct negotiations. Federico Moya, a merchant, went to Mexico City, where, he says, he held a conference with government officials relative to peace. Minister Limantour is said to have been one of those consulted. Senior Moya was told that the government already had made great concessions and it was hinted that even greater changes pertaining to the presidency and vice presidency were discussed. Hurrying to Chihuahua, Senior Moya was joined by Dr. Heffert and today they drove in an auto to Madero's camp. Meantime the telegraph wires in Chihuahua were hooked up with those in the field controlled by Madero and messages were sent advising the insurrecto leader of the coming of the messengers. So eager was Senior Madero to hear the proposals that he halted in his march to the Casas Grandes region and with a force of men returned to a point near Bust-illos. The meeting took place as Madero sat surrounded by his staff.

Asked on what terms he would conclude peace, Senior Madero said he only could repeat demands already made.

Senior Madero was told that the war was inflicting industry and imposing intense suffering, not only on those fighting, but on non-combatants. He replied that he was fully aware of this condition and was as anxious for peace as anybody but he could see no way for peace until his cause triumphed. He then inquired as to the news from Mexico City.

A conference was then held with the statement that possibly information might be given out later.

The fact that envoys were in conference with Madero was not taken to indicate that peace was in immediate prospect as the talk was undertaken as a means of feeding the way to more direct negotiations.

Anniversary of the Attack is Being Observed Today
Opening the Attack of the Confederacy Upon the United States and Precipitating the Greatest War in History

Fifty years ago today Fort Sumter was fired upon and the greatest war in history precipitated.

In February, 1861, six seceding states in convention at Montgomery, Ala., formed a government under the name of the Confederate States of America. The title thus declared that the states formed a confederacy and not a union. The constitution was mainly that of the United States except that it made a careful provision for slavery and forbade a protective tariff. The government was a provisional one for a year since only six of the southern states were represented. Jefferson Davis of Mississippi was chosen president and Alexander H.
Stephens of Georgia vice president.
The seceding states at once took measures to obtain possession of the arsenals, forts and other property of the United States within their borders.
The United States army was scattered at distant points, but the larger part was in Texas, under General Twiggs, who obeyed the command of the Confederate states to surrender his forces.

The forts throughout the southern states were mainly in the hands of southern men who delivered them to the new authorities. The commanders of Fort Pickens, at Pensacola and of the forts of Key West and Tampa refused to give them up. The greatest interest attached to the forts within the borders of South Carolina.

The harbor of Charleston was commanded by Fort Sumter and Moultrie and Castle Pinckney. Fort Sumter was not yet finished, but a garrison under Major Robert Anderson, a Kentuckian, was occupying Fort Moultrie, which was a weaker work. In the night of December 26 Major Anderson secretly transferred his men and sup-

STOCK TRANSFERS

Committee Reports Favorably on
Rep. Barlow's Bill

Bill Will Mean Additional Revenue
to State of Nearly a Million Per Annum, Thus Cutting Down the Burdensome State Tax

Rep. Erson B. Barlow, of this city, was the happiest man in Lowell today when he learned that the committee on taxation had reported favorably without a dissenting vote on his bill to tax stock transfers in Massachusetts.

Rep. Barlow's bill provides for a two per cent. tax per $100 on all transfers of stock, a matter which will net the state an additional revenue of three-quarters of a million dollars annually.

The idea of the bill was to acquire some additional source of revenue for the state in order to keep down the ever increasing state tax. The state tax of 1900 was $1,500,000. In 1910 it was $5,500,000, an increase in 10 years of $4,000,000. The state tax is met by every city and town in the commonwealth.

In the legislature all sorts of schemes were suggested for getting more revenue for the state to keep down this tax and Rep. Barlow's suggestion that stock transfers be placed under a light tax, met with favor and he introduced the bill. At first the only member of the committee on taxation to favor his project was Senator Barnes of Weymouth, but by persistent effort he succeeded finally in converting the entire committee to his way of thinking. For eight weeks the committee has been trying to report the bill but was met with a firm opposition from State street interests which strove to have the bill thrown out. It has been reported with dissent, however, and Rep.
Barlow is now confident that it will become law.

BOSTON COUNCIL BILL

Lomasney's Measure for Body of 27 Members Substituted

BOSTON, April 12.—By the decisive vote of 153 to 79 the Massachusetts house of representatives yesterday afternoon voted to substitute for the adverse report of the legislative committee on metropolitan affairs a bill to give Boston a city council of 27 members to succeed the present body of nine. It was a sweeping victory for Representative Martin M. Lomasney of Boston and his associate dissenters from the adverse report of the committee on the various measures which sought to establish a new order of things in Boston as far as its legislative body is concerned.

The contention that the present board is undesirable because in it so many districts in the big city are unrepresented carried the day against a remonstrance largely based on an expressed feeling that the new city charter of Boston should not be amended at all.

It is his contention for the substitution of the bill for a council of 27. Representative Lomasney was assisted by such republicans as Representatives Cox and Bagley of Boston and Washburn of Worcester and Thomas of Quincy. Representative McInerney of Boston, democrat, also spoke for the bill.

The opposition was led by Representative Grafton Cushing of ward 11, Boston, who was assisted by Representative Bathfield of Newton, C. L. Carr, Montague and Crocker of Boston.

Of the 43 Boston democrats, 33 voted for the bill, four were absent, and one, Representative McInerney of ward 23, voted against the measure. The Boston democrats not recorded are Representatives Colpoys, Conway, Cronin and Dorr.

Of the eight Boston republicans three voted for the bill (Bagley, Cox and Hart), four voted against it (Cushing, Crocker, C. L. Carr and Montague), and one, Representative
John Carr, was absent.

The other democrats of the house who are not recorded were Representatives Breckenridge, E. A. McCarthy, Preece and Schlap.

The out-of-town republicans not recorded were: Representatives Converse, H. Hathaway, Jr., H. L. Howard, W. N. Howard, Hawley, Langtry, Morgan and Walker (speaker).

Provisions of the Bill

The announcement of the emphatic vote in favor of a change was greeted with applause by the house members.
The bill which the house substituted has a referendum to the people of Boston at the next state election. The measure provides a city council of 27 members, to be nominated at party primaries, and to be elected by wards.

Each ward is entitled to one councilman except wards 20 and 24, which, on account of their great population, are entitled to two each.

Each member of the council shall receive a salary of $1200.

For the purpose of nominating candidates for the council primaries shall be held in the several precincts on the fifth Thursday preceding the city election.

Independents shall be nominated on nominating papers.

Here was adopted the only amendment to the pending bill, moved by Representative Lomasney. As it stood the bill provided that the nomination papers should contain the signatures of at least one registered voter for every 100 voters cast for governor at the preceding state election in the city. Representative Lomasney had this amended to read "at least two names for each 100 votes cast for governor in the electoral district in which the nomination is to be made." This was agreed to,
on a voice vote.

GOVERNOR FOSS

In a Message to the Legislature Hits Tax Dodging

BOSTON, April 12.—Gov. Foss yesterday sent to the legislature a message urging members to unite in asking the supreme court for its opinion upon the power of the legislature to levy taxes.

The message is a direct consequence of the revelations in regard to the Quincy A. Shaw estate assessment in Boston and the recent return of the trustees to the assessors showing that the estate had been greatly undervalued.

The order for the opinion of the supreme court was introduced into the house several days ago by Hanley of Malden for the committee on taxation, which has before it two bills covering the points contained in the governor's message. The order has been passed several times for debate. The governor wants something done in the matter, hence his stirring up of the legislature.

Some critics thought they saw in this message interference with legislation, but Gov. Foss laughed at the suggestion and added he didn't believe anybody would seriously question his right to communicate his views on public questions.

The governor in his message said: "In order that our present tax laws may be amended it is absolutely necessary that your constitutional authority be determined by our supreme court."

"I therefore urge upon all your members to unite in asking the supreme court for such a decision. When such determination has been reached you can attack the problem of improving our methods of apportioning and enforcing taxes with some hope of success.

"The evasion of the tax laws, whether due to the desire to evade just burdens or to weakness in the system of taxation itself, cannot be tolerated in any country that is and desires to remain free.

"Such evasion debauches private morals and destroys the foundation of good citizenship. It converts our tax laws into agents of injustice and oppression and thereby strikes at the basis of political justice. It creates favored classes and arouses the resentment of the less favored classes against them and thus contributes to class hatred and prejudice.

GOV. GONZALES

WILL ASK FOR REVISION OF ELECTORAL LAWS

GUANAJUATO, Mex., April 12.—In partial accordance with the desires of the committee of Guanajuato business men who recently appealed to the president for a change in the governorship of the state, Governor Obregon Gonzales yesterday proposed to the legislature an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the re-election of a governor.

The governor also stated that once this amendment was enacted, he would propose a measure providing for a revision of the electoral laws.

SHORT SESSION NORMAL SCHOOL

Few Offenders in Police Court Today

The police court session lasted just 30 minutes this morning. If it keeps on Lowell is on the verge of becoming a spotless town again, for there were only three drunken offenders before the court, two of them being first offenders.

Michael J. Sayers, who was under a suspended sentence to the state farm, had his former sentence revoked and he was held in the sum of $200. His face seemed as if it had come in contact with a telegraph pole, for it was badly swollen and bore several deep cuts.

Larceny. Edgar Cameron, who yesterday was found guilty of larceny of clothing and various other articles from Helge Lagergren, and whose sentence was deferred till today, was this morning sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory, after the court had been informed that all of the stolen goods had been recovered.

Alexandre Dupont, charged with the larceny of $5.50 from Athos Saphos, entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued till Saturday morning, the defendant being held in the sum of $200. The government claims that the money was taken yesterday from Saphos' pocket while the latter was working in the dye house of the Merrimack mills.

MARRIAGE PERMITS. The following marriage intentions have been registered at the city clerk's office since the last were published:

April 8.—Raphael de S. da Silva, 23, weaver, 403 Central street and Gertrudes Freitas, 27, weaver, 29 South street.

April 10.—Joseph W. Gaffney, 26, operative, 3 Tucker street and Mary D. Roy, 21, housewife, 373 Perkins street.

April 11.—Stephen Mano, 22, waiter, 154 Merrimack street and Helen M. Houston, 19, waitress, 612 Merrimack street.

Edgemoor, 31, weaver, 1 Vincent place and Josephine Pettis, 32, housewife, 205 Cheever street.

John J. Careville, 23, transferer, 10 Kimball avenue and Mary Bracewell, 20, weaver, North Chelmsford, Mass.

BILLERICA

The board of selectmen of the town of Billerica met Monday night at the town hall in the Centre and transacted considerable business. The feature of the meeting was the large number of appointments made.

The appointments were as follows: Burial agent for indigent soldiers and sailors, Alden O. Dane; caretaker of town clock, Mram E. Dutton; measurers of grain and inspectors of petroleum, F. G. Morey, E. B. Cole, Fred H. Parker, James A. Elwood; public weighers, B. W. Morey, Elmer E. Cole, D. J. Dewine, Philip B. Dolan, Edw. R. Carr; scaler of weights and measures, Edwin Stott; fish warden, Robert Tivney; registrar of voters, three years, John Joseph Mahoney; police and janitor, Martin Conway, Everett W. Livingston; police officers without pay, W. P. Symmes, Isaac Hopkinson, Frank S. Bartlett, Harry W. Essex, Gardner Spaulding, Robert Tivney, Norman M. Allen, Roger Harrington, Edward R. Costello, Charles F. Manning, Charles Kemp, John P. Burnham, Patrick Kearney, William Casey, Henry D. Livingston; special police officer for Talbot mills property, Isaac Norris; Millbury; board of engineers, Ernest Bartlett, John H. Baker, William B. Chambers. Several other appointments were laid over until a later date.

There was a large attendance at the monthly meeting of the Williams Bible class held in the vestry of the North Billerica church. President Guy M. Richardson occupied the chair during the session and Delaney Cockton delivered an interesting address on "Theology." Refreshments were served and there was a short entertainment which included piano selections by Charles Ritchie and songs by Herbert B. Ellis, Rev. Charles H. Williams, Ph. D., teacher of the class, also gave a brief talk. The supper committee was comprised of George Jettcock, John Ritchie and James A. Rath.

Lecture by Mrs. Kate Thekla Conley

The musical lecture given yesterday afternoon at the Normal school by Mrs. Kate Thekla Conley of Boston, widow of the late George H. Conley of the state board of education, proved to be a real treat for the large attendance.

The lecture was given for the benefit of the students, the faculty and the general public.

In her opening Mrs. Conley gave a keen analysis of the genius of Wagner, contrasting him with Bach, Beethoven and Mozart, and describing his peculiar mission, as a reformer, not of music but of the opera. She also gave a brief and interesting account of the composer's life, after which she devoted the remainder of the lecture to "Lohengrin."

In the presentation of her lecture here, without accompaniment of music, Mrs. Conley succeeded in stirring her hearers to reverent sympathy with the fortunes of the knight of the Grail, so exquisitely did she interpret the music and the poetry of the musical drama, "Lohengrin."

The same lecture is being given by Mrs. Conley in the large cities.

$20,000 AWARD

Bravery of Two Men is Recognized

NEW YORK, April 12.—The bravery of Orlavus Juve and John J. McGlynn, who risked their lives to save 53 of their fellows while working on the Queensboro bridge in 1907, was rewarded by the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn yesterday by the award of $20,000 damages to each of the men, with interest and costs.

The men were in charge of placing in position some large iron plates on the tower of the bridge. One of these slipped from its supports and would have fallen in the midst of some 50 men who were working below it. Juve and McGlynn had not used their skill and muscle to deflect it. In so doing their hands were crushed to pieces, costing their usefulness in a trade at which they had earned from $30 to $40 a week.

Their suit for damages was won in a lower court and now sustained by the appellate division, which was against the Pennsylvania Steel Co., who had the contract for steel work on the bridge.

PRINCESS IRENE SUFFERED ONLY A BROKEN RUD- DER POST

NEW YORK, April 12.—Divers made an examination yesterday of the steamer Princess Irene and confirmed that the only damage which she suffered in the grounding on Fire island beach was a broken rudder post. She will go to Newport News for a more thorough examination.

The Burgemeister Burchard was commanded by Captain Buss and carried a crew of 13 men.

THE OPERA HOUSE

"That play of mystery and weirdness, 'The House of a Thousand Candles,' a dramatization of Meredith Nicholson's novel of the same name and which is the current bill at the Opera House this week loses none of its whimsical and fascinating interest in its star form and as presented by this clever company of players is proving a drama of strong dramatic scenes and situations, that elicit numerous curtain calls at each climax. The part of 'Bates,' the enigma, in the hands of Stanley Forrest, is as clever a bit of acting as he has given here; Benedict MacQuarrie, as the fiery young 'Glenham' is good, Frank Christie is admirably as 'Larry Donovan.' Miss Whitehouse, makes a charming 'Marion Devereaux,' while the remainder of the company are seen to advantage. The settings for this production deserve more than passing notice and go far to make the production an effective one. 'The House of a Thousand Candles' will be presented every afternoon and evening this week and after the Thursday matinee another of the popular productions will be held on the stage. Seats for all performances are on sale at the box office.—Adv.

"THE BATTLE"

An absorbing story is "The Battle." It is a forceful drama of contemporary life, which created a profound impression when produced with Wilton Lackaye, in the principal role. "The Battle" occupied the stage of the Savoy theatre, New York, last season and for a long period was the talk of the country, because of the unusual interest displayed in the story of this vital drama, by the millionaire masses. The play was written by Cleveland Moffett, who is a noted contributor to the leading magazines, and a student of the all-absorbing topic of labor and capital. In "The Battle" he has assumed a novel attitude on the great question, one which will undoubtedly create much discussion. The story of "The Battle" concerns the masses and the classes, with both sides fully represented. Usually the classes are contented to get the money and let the masses do the preaching, but Mr. Moffett has presented a new angle with his millionaire trust magnate, John J. Haggleton. It is also important to note that some of the telling speeches with which Haggleton confounds his antagonist, were written by none other than John D. Rockefeller, who was attracted to the drama by the force of Mr. Moffett's writings. So that altogether "The Battle" is in more than one respect unique among modern dramas and should prove a splendid vehicle for the Thompson-Flynn Stock company, at the Opera House all next week. Seats for the week including April 14th are now on sale at the box office.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

This week's presentation of Grace George's great metropolitan success, "Clothes" by the Donald Meek stock company with Severin DeDeyn, is one of the most "classy" productions from the view point of style and general elaborateness that has been put on this season. The play calls for elaborate attire on the part of the several women characters and the members of the company have spared neither pains nor expense in dressing the parts. Miss Estelle's two evening gowns are a feast for feminine eyes. The play is strongly dramatic in parts and yet abounds in bright dialogue and comedy. Miss Estelle in the leading role is called upon for emotional acting which she presents in most clever manner. All of the feminine roles are exceptionally strong and are finely done by Miss Lillian Neiderauer, Miss Allen and Miss Dutton. Mr. DeDeyn is seen to excellent advantage as a lover, while Mr. Meek again demonstrates his marked versatility by carrying off the part of an old man in finished manner.

The company is rehearsing "When We Were Twenty-One," Donald Meek's great success, which will be presented as the special Easter week attraction as the result of repeated requests from patrons of the theatre and personal admirers of this clever actor. Mr. Meek is known as a comedian by reason of his great success in the lighter roles. But he has no superior as a character actor, while he is equally at home in certain leading roles. In the character of "The Imp," a youngster saving his wild oats under the joint guardianship of three of his father's cronies, Mr. Meek made his first big hit in Lowell while a member of the Huntington-DeDeyn stock company. The play went so well that it was repeated with success. Afterward when a member of the John Craig stock company, the play was given again with Meek as "The Imp," and the critical patrons of the Castle Square theatre went into ecstasies over it and it was repeated at the Boston theatre. When Mr. Meek's company opened up this season among the first questions asked was "When are they going to play 'When We Were Twenty-One.' It will be next week's attraction.—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Those who have seen "A-Ba-Ba" the feature number in this week's bill at the Merrimack Square theatre, pronounce it one of the most entertaining novelties of the season. The poses and tableaux represent many well known subjects and are given with correctness and attention to detail with characteristic skill.

Cameron and Howland, the comedy sketch artists are among the cleverest that have played before a local audience in some time. Their slugging is excellent and the selections on the piano by the young woman member of the duo is deserving of special mention. The pair has scored heavily at all performances thus far during the week. Others who contribute to the bill are Harrington and Millard, vocalists, and the scenic quartet.

"Thermos-Arktes," a revelation in modern science, by Prof. Van Dorn & Co., is absolutely the biggest and best of the latest pictures. Tonight is a novelty that has been seen in vaudevilles in seasons. Prof. Van Dorn does things that seem almost incredible. Eggs cooked on ice, snow made right on the stage while the temperature of the theatre is at 70 degrees, the melting of iron and steel to a fluid in a few seconds, are only a few of the wonderful things which this man does. There is always something going on at this theatre daily from 1.30 to 10.30 p.m. If you can't get around in the afternoon or evening, drop in at one of the supper hour matinees. This theatre will be closed all day Good Friday.—Adv.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

A varied program is presented at this house for the first half of the week. Sherman and Rose are a pair of funny comedians who can sing and talk some. A big novelty scenic skating act is given by McLellan and Carson, introducing fancy and trick skating. James Kierian & Co., appear in the funny comedy sketch, entitled "A Royal Cook." The bill includes three reels of the latest pictures. Tonight is an amateur night.—Adv.

MANY PROTESTS

Against Granting of Liquor Licenses

Received by Police Board

Law and Order League, Church Organizations and Mill Overseers Enter Protests — Police Officer Moore Retired on a Pension — Police Officer Was Suspended for Twelve Days

Vigorous protests against the granting of liquor licenses in various parts of the city, especially in the Greek colony and in the vicinity of Merrimack square, have been made at last night's session of that body the greater portion of the meeting was devoted to the reading of the remonstrances from representatives of church organizations, mill officials and individuals. Owing to the number of remonstrances it was decided to continue the business of next Tuesday's meeting to the hearing of the remonstrances and also the petitioners for the saloon licenses.

Patrolman Louis F. A. I. Lemay was given a hearing on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, and after the board had considered the case, found the respondent guilty and ordered that he be suspended for 12 days.

Considerable routine business was transacted during the early part of the meeting.

Many Remonstrances Filed

The letters from the Lowell Law and Order League and the Lowell Federation of Churches, which have been published in this paper, were read. These had to do with the granting of a first and fourth class license in adjoining premises, even though they are separated.

Joint Communication

A joint communication from committees representing the First Free Baptist church at the corner of Paige and Brookings streets, and the Central Methodist Episcopal church at the corner of Paige and John streets, was read, as follows:

Lowell, Mass., April 11, 1911.

To the Board of Police, Lowell, Mass. Gentlemen: We, the undersigned, are appointed a joint committee to protest against a first class license being granted for the sale of intoxicants at the corner of Bridge and Paige streets, by the unanimous votes of the First Free Baptist church, worshipping at the corner of Paige and Brookings streets, and the Central Methodist Episcopal church, worshipping at the corner of Paige and John streets. First: Because of the financial injury that would be visited on the property entrusted to our care as churches.

Second: It would injure the morality and good reputation of the people and locality where our churches are situated, would increase poverty and criminality of families for whose betterment we are earnestly laboring and generously giving and would counteract the good work of our churches.

Third: We deprecate another licensed saloon so near the transfer station of our city.

For the committee:

Benjamin R. Harris, 149 Methuen street.

Committees: First Free Baptist church, Rev. Benjamin R. Harris and Deacons William O. Brown, Mark O. Batchelder and D. P. Knowlton; Central Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. N. T. Whitaker, D. D., Henry O. Brooks, Martin B. Thomas and Edwin T. Griffin.

Kirk Street Church

The following communication from the board of deacons of the Kirk Street Congregational church was then read:

Lowell, Mass., April 10, 1911.

John J. Flaherty, Jr., Clerk of Board of Police Commissioners.

Dear Sir: At a meeting of the officers of the Kirk Street Congregational church, held Friday evening, April 7th, it was voted: "That we enter a remonstrance with the license commissioners against the granting of any liquor license in what is known as Merrimack square: from John street to Bridge street, and from Merrimack street to French street, and that the clerk be instructed to present such remonstrance."

As clerk of said body, I enter the above remonstrance and would suggest that you listen to the same at the hearing to be held April 13, before your commissioners, by the Federation of Churches, and we shall be present at that meeting.

Yours respectfully,

Samuel H. Thompson, Clerk of Board of Deacons of Kirk Street Church.

Mill Officials Object

The officers and overseers of the Massachusetts Cotton mills sent in a communication remonstrating against the granting of a fourth class license to John Duff at 16 Merrimack square and a similar notice remonstrating against the granting of a license to Mr. Duff was sent by the Middlesex Machine Co.

Mrs. S. L. Clay and A. S. Hamilton, in a communication to the board, protested against granting a liquor license at 331 Moody street and 27 Race street, Phillips Rocheite having applied for licenses at these places.

Mary Swan protested against the granting of a license to George W. Duwright & Co., at 121-123 Fayette street.

After the foregoing communications were read, the board voted to grant a hearing to all remonstrants on the evening of April 18th, at which time the petitioners for licenses against which protests have been made, will be present.

Placed on Pension List

The petition of Patrolman Francis E. Moore that he be relieved from active duty and transferred to the pension roll was then taken up. The following self-explanatory letter from Dr. Forster H. Smith, city physician, was read:

April 4, 1911.

To the Board of Police:

Dear Sirs:—I examined Mr. Francis E. Moore, this afternoon, a year within a week, after the injury to his ankle, and eight months since my previous examination of him. While there has been a little improvement during the last eight months, yet I am of the opinion today, that Mr. Moore will never recover proper use of his leg to enable him to do strenuous work, such as he may be called upon to do at any moment while on duty. I, therefore, recommend him to the pension roll.

Respectfully,

Forster H. Smith, City Physician.

The board then voted to transfer the officer from active service to the pension roll, as provided in chapter 428 of the acts and resolves of 1902.

Patrolman Moore was appointed a patrolman in October 1899. On the night of April 10, 1910, while patrolling his beat on Bridge street, he slipped from steps and fractured his ankle. Since that time he has been unable to do active work in connection with the department.

Patrolman Lemay Suspended

The hearing of charges against Patrolman Louis G. A. I. Lemay was then taken up. The specific charge was that on Saturday, March 25, at about 10:35 p. m., he assaulted Adelard Levesque. William A. Hogan appeared for the complainant and James E. O'Donnell for the respondent.

The first witness called was Levesque who said he was walking through Moody street on the night in question, and when near the corner of Cabot street, the patrolman asked him where he was going. He told the officer that it was none of his business and said he would talk about what he pleased without any patrolman questioning him about it. Lemay then crossed the street, Levesque said, and struck him on the head, knocking him down. He said after he had got to his feet, Lemay struck him the second time.

The other witnesses for the complainant were Jean Bourre, Napoleon Labrousse and Alphonse Levesque. Their testimony was to the effect that one night when Bourre was going home with his brother Officer Lemay had taken hold of Bourre's brother, Jean Bourre, went to his assistance and was warned not to interfere. He did not do so. On the night that Levesque was assaulted, witnesses said, Lemay shouted across to Bourre, but Bourre did not hear him. Levesque was the man who answered him.

Officer Lemay said that he was patrolling his beat on the night in question. He heard profanity and looking across the street saw Levesque, Bourre and others and heard them profane some more. He went across to them and found them bolsterous. He took hold of Levesque. It was slippery and Levesque fell down. He did not strike him, he said.

After the witnesses had been examined, the board voted to suspend Officer Lemay from duty from April 12 to 24.

Minor Licenses

The following minor licenses were granted:

Transfer of amusement parlor: Mrs. J. G. Desjardins, from 343 Middlesex street to 275 Alken street.

Billiard and pool: George Perperes, three tables, from 414 Market street to 420 Market street.

FRENCH SENATE

HAD A LIVELY DISCUSSION OVER THE CHAMPAGNE QUESTION

PARIS, April 12.—The senate yesterday after a lengthy discussion of the serious situation which has arisen over the champagne question, adopted a resolution in favor of the suppression of all territorial delimitations as likely to provoke dissensions between the various sections of the country. A law was recently enacted excluding the department of Aube from the region the wine of which can legally be designated champagne. This has resulted in demonstrations of protest in that department.

SHORTER SESSION PREFERABLE

There is an agitation in favor of limiting the session of the legislature to 100 days. The idea is a good one. With a shorter session a lot of the freak measures would be thrown out and the "walking" bills would have a short shrift.

TO PREVENT DROWNINGS IN CANALS

The appeal of Harry W. J. Howe for the safeguarding of children against drowning in our local canals, as read in the common council last night, should help to bring about some action by which precautionary measures will be adopted. Those parts of the canals that are not properly fenced should be attended to without delay. We are glad that the common council appointed a committee to take the matter up and see what can be done.

FOR MUNICIPAL MILK STATIONS

It is probable that the bill to permit cities of over 10,000 population to establish milk stations will become law in the near future. In the legislature last year the bill was withdrawn because it was learned that Governor Draper would veto it. This year the measure has but little opposition. Judging from the popularity of the milk station conducted by the Lowell Guild, the idea is favored in Lowell at least as at present conducted. It is not certain, however, that public opinion would favor a station conducted by the city government.

THE ROUTE TOO SHORT

The route of the parade for April 19 is so very short that it will be impossible for all the people who wish to see it to crowd into the space along the sidewalks. It is practically a march from the Middlesex street station to city hall. Why not take in a part of Belvidere, dropping the older men, if necessary, and let the younger men march over a route that will enable the people to see it without too much crowding. If the parade be as long as expected, the head will have reached Monument Square almost before the last company shall have started. That will not afford much chance of a military display.

OUTLOOK FOR COTTON MILLS

Although there is a slight depression felt among cotton manufacturers on account of the possibility of tariff disturbance, yet in general the outlook is such as to inspire confidence for good business during the summer and better still during the fall and winter. A considerable number of Massachusetts mills omitted the regular dividends in the past year or two, unable longer to pursue the policy of drawing upon the reserve accumulated in prosperous times to keep up appearances. The high price of cotton and the tariff agitation are the chief factors that operate against this industry, but it is expected that conditions will be much improved by the fall and that the winter will bring a season of profitable activity.

COUNTERFEIT CHARITY

The beggar long ago discovered that a ticket to some other place where he can trouble us no more is the thing above all others which we give with the greatest cheerfulness to the applicant for aid. As a result an agency in a railroad town out of a total relief expenditure of $300 a year used $240 for railroad tickets to near-by communities. The survey.

This counterfeit charity is widely practised by towns and cities all over the country. It is taken advantage of by hobos who prefer a ride in a railroad train to a hike along a country road. Many of the men from neighboring states who arrive here "broke" and appeal to the charity department are able, after a time, to work the department for their fare to the place they want to reach. They may belong in Nashua or Lawrence, but if they want to go to Boston they will say they belong there and "want to get home." The game is being played so often on the officials that it is found useless and unprofitable.

EMPLOYMENT FOR CONVICTS

By the explosion in the Banner mine in Alabama, on Saturday, 128 state convicts lost their lives. While the state may be severely censured for hiring the convicts into slavery in the mines, yet there is a question of finding them employment that is not easily solved. No American state should be open to the charge of imitating the system once in force in Siberia. One of the worst afflictions the state convict has to bear is idleness. The labor unions will object if convict labor be employed in competition with that of union men and hence the prisoners to a great extent are debarrd from working profitably as they otherwise might. Many of them have families or dependent relatives who become charges upon the state. Thus the state in pursuance of its primitive policy and its prison rules holds convicts in idleness, while they might be made to support their families that are thrown upon the charity of the city or state.

There is here an opportunity to devise a system of profitable employment for convicts. It must not be of a cruel character such as is evidently adopted in the state of Alabama. Neither should it be of the chain gang kind where men are obliged to work while chained to one another. There should be some method of employment on state work by which the convicts could earn moderate wages and this should be sent to the dependents of the prisoner or else saved for him until the time of his release. It may be necessary in most cases to have a well equipped factory operated in connection with each prison so that the inmates can, if necessary, learn a trade by which they may be able to earn a living after leaving the prison. This is the ideal method. Some of our reformatories have such a system in operation with the very best results. This system might be extended so as to furnish a means of keeping the prisoners busy and at the same time enabling them to earn a little money, or else learn a useful trade. There is here a great field for prison reform, one of which would be a source of economy to the state and a godsend to the convicts.

SEEN AND HEARD

Sometimes a man decides just what he is going to have for his spring suit before he can see where the money to pay for it is coming from.

It will be an awful blow to President Diaz if he ever goes to Spain and learns that he doesn't know how to pronounce his name in Spanish.

The barren skirt won't shock anybody who remembers the bicycle girls of a dozen years ago in bloomers.

Pretty soon it will be time to put on the spring overcoat, that was a fall overcoat when it was laid away at the beginning of winter.

YOUR DOG

Buy a pup and your money will buy love unflinching that cannot lie—perfect passion and worship fed by a lick in the ribs or a pat on the head.

When the fourteen years which Nature permits are closing in asthma, or tumor or fits, and the doctor's prescription runs to lethal chambers, or loaded guns, then you will find—its own affair. But—your dog given your heart for a dog to tear.

—Kipling.

The man who has his photograph taken only once in twenty years wears a mirror in his mind. The photographer doesn't have a mirror stuck up in front of his sitters, so that they can see just how they look.

Those letters that I ought to write—Their haunting memories thrills me with a vague uneasiness. Like thoughts of New Year's bills. Too long have I neglected them. And now I see their face.

All mutely looking up at me With a reproachful air.

They haunt me in my waking hours. They haunt me in my dreams. I know to all my waiting friends My fault enormous seems. I know I ought to answer them. My guilt I will allow—Yet I don't feel like sitting down To write those letters now.

It is a mistake to think that a pa can always help out his high school daughter with her algebra, just because he has a framed college diploma hanging on the wall.

THE CALL OF THE QUAIL

In the morning when the dew is just a winking on the grass, When the robins all are singing and the jay-birds giving "saw," And the flock of crows are cawing 'round the edges of the corn,

And every one just feeling good to think that they were born; Then I hear a sound that thrills me, as it comes from hill and dale, And echoes down the valley—'tis the calling of the quail.

At noon-time, when the orchestra of crickets draw the bow, When the "hopper" and the toadstools join the chorus, don't you know, And you hear the bees humming like a field of wild-rose stems,

And the air is just a thrumming with a something kind of ring, There comes floating 'cross the meadow from the hazels near the swale, Full of cheer and woodland music, 'tis the whistle of the quail.

In the evening when the shadows linger round the garden gate, And the turtle-dove is calling to its drowsy little mate, And the swallows twitter softly from their nests beneath the eaves, And the squirrels scold and chatter as they hide beneath the leaves,

There comes, from out the orchard, where perched upon a rail, He sings his pleasant challenge—'tis the "good-night" of the quail.

W. E. Hutchinson in Overland Monthly.

When Senator Lodge the other day drafted a bill to provide for two United States district courts in Massachusetts it was noticed that in the enumeration of the counties the title "County of Dukes County" was used.

Instead of the simple phrase "Dukes County," says the Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript. The senator's attention was called to what appeared to be an error in transcription, and he at once explained that "County of Dukes County" is correct, officially and historically.

"I got fooled on that once myself," said the senator, "and I never have forgotten the correct title. As a member of the Massachusetts legislature in 1880 I served on the committee on engrossed bills. One day a bill came along containing the phrase 'County of Dukes County' and I took it to George A. Menden, who was then speaker, and suggested that there was an error. 'Oh, no,' said Menden, 'this is the official title. I looked the matter up and found he was right. That is the title to be found in the constitution of the commonwealth of Massachusetts and it is used elsewhere in the manual of the general court.'

"Hello Jim, are you getting ready to play the game? I suppose you are an expert at it now."

"Quite mistaken Claude. I haven't had a cat in my hand for a long while, but by the way Claude, what brings you here tonight? I thought you had given up your membership card. Is it not so?"

"Why no, and I can't see what led you to believe that I had given up the club. I admit that I've been keeping late hours for the past month or so, and that my wife is raising the dickens over it, but I assure you, my dear boy, I haven't the slightest idea of staying at home every night, and as long as the club remains in existence, I'll be one of the boys. But really Jim, I'm at a loss to know what got that in your head about me resigning from the club. Was anyone telling you stories?"

"Well, I don't know if you would call them stories, but I certainly heard something funny about you. Say old man, how did you enjoy yourself the other night?"

"What night?"

"The night of the reception."

"Oh, I understand now, you heard about it. I suppose, so I may as well tell you. Yes Jim, I had a splendid time, and I can't help laughing when I think of it. If you had only seen my wife the next morning."

"What's the story anyway? I only heard a little about it."

"Well, on the night of the reception, a number of us were feeling very good at midnight, and the fun was continued for hours later, or perhaps I should say earlier. You know, when men get talking at that hour, they do say things. Anyway, I left at three o'clock, a. m. with Tom and Percy, and we were sports enough to hire a taxi. As it was, my home was reached first and naturally I invited my two mates to stop with me a few minutes, and this they did. You

"However we paid the chauffeur and entered the house. 'Is this you Claude?' came forth a voice from upstairs. 'Yes (hic) love, and (hic) I'm coming right up.' 'You'd better,' responded my better half. And up I went, and forgetting my two mates in the parlor, I went to bed. But this is not the funniest part of it. My wife did not know about Percy and Tom's presence in the house, and you can imagine her surprise next morning when she came down stairs and discovered the two birds dead asleep. Say it was funny. Percy was sitting in a rocker while opposite him was Tom in an arm chair. They were snoring. My wife retreated upstairs before she had time to see who the men were. She was badly frightened and at first took them for burglars. I came down to drive them out but alas it would require a derick and five police officers.

"Talk about being embarrassed. 'I or yes—these are my friends.' 'Your friends, and what are they doing here? At that minute Tom awoke and turning to my wife said 'Three more minutes to my wife said 'Three more minutes.' 'What?' she yelled. Percy then opened his eyes and said: 'Me one eye opener.' I thought he needed two eye-openers. Well, that was the end of it. Percy and Tom made a dash for the door, but the taxi was not there and had been a hasty retreat in spite of an occasional side-step to preserve their equilibrium.

"That certainly was a good one on the three of you. But how did you get out of it?"

"There never was another word mentioned about it, but as matters looked serious I took the pledge, and now I am on the wagon."

"Well it was for your own good after all wasn't it?"

"Yes, it was, but although I'm not drinking I will not give up the club."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Dr. William Kirk, associate professor of social and political science at Brown University, has resigned to take up the duties of general secretary of the United Charities of Rochester, N. Y.

His new position will involve a double task, for in addition to the directorship of the United Charities, moving to the city of Rochester, he will become full professor of economics and sociology at the University of Rochester, and in that capacity will organize a department covering these subjects.

His appointment to the position of general secretary of the United Charities has been announced by the committee appointed by the Rochester chamber of commerce to investigate the needs of the city along the lines of greater co-operation and efficiency in the direction of charitable effort.

After examination of organized charity in many of the cities of the United States and Europe, and after considering about 150 men as possible directors of the new work, the committee chose Dr. Kirk to undertake this most important part of what has come to be known as "The Rochester Movement" for civic betterment.

The plans of the committee were approved some time ago by the existing organizations for charitable work, and Dr. Kirk expects to have the full support of all charitable agencies in the city. Dr. Kirk has been on the Brown University faculty since 1905, coming to Providence from Johns Hopkins University where he received his doctorate in 1905. His experience with practical problems of charitable work has been wide.

King George has offered White Lodge in London to Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck, and they will take up their residence there as soon as the present extensive alterations have been completed. Some time ago Lord Paragon intimated that he did not desire to retain possession of this residence, which will suit Prince Alexander admirably, who finds that his military duties require him in London more often than before, and also that his present quarters, in Henry III. Tower, at Windsor, are getting too cramped. Thus White Lodge so long associated with the name of Teck, will once more be the home of that family.

Four casts, modeled by Dr. R. Vail McKenzie, director of the department of physical education at Pennsylvania, have been sent to the International Hygiene exposition, which will be held this summer in Uresion. The casts show the effect upon the face of violent effort, breathlessness, fatigue, and exhaustion. Dr. McKenzie prepared the masks after observing hundreds of athletes.

The class of 1878 Yale—that of President Taft—has pledged $10,000 for two more suites of rooms for the new White dormitory in memory of two classmates, Justice J. R. Whitney and H. M. Hoyt, assistant attorney-general of the United States. Only $20,000 is now needed to complete the $30,000 which the dormitory is to cost.

Mrs. Emma M. Nelson, an American woman now living at Kailua, Hawaii, herself a power in Hawaii. She holds an unusual position in the Territorial government. She is a water rights commissioner, acting as judge to decide cases where the rights are in litigation, and is considered an able and just official. She is the great granddaughter of Captain McCall of the "Eleanor," of distinguished ancestry.

the state. It is interpreted by many as a recognition by the federal government of the seriousness of the rising and the necessity of complying, at least in a measure, with the demands of the populace.

According to the Hermosillo advices, mass meetings named as the popular candidate for governor, Alejandro Lacy, a member of an old family which has been neutral throughout the present difficulty. Licenciado Talde Lopez Del Castillo, a lawyer of Sonora, was named for vice governor. Castillo has not been identified with administration measures. The government will open the polls April 23 and will send out instructions as to how to vote and guarantee a free ballot. This will be the first open election in the state of Sonora since President Diaz's election. Following the uprising which occurred at the time, a military governor was appointed and he has been maintained in office ever since, the so-called elections being merely equivalent to reappointments.

Gen. Torres was nominated for governor and Dr. Francisco Aguilar for vice governor two months ago, the people having no choice in their selection. Dr. Aguilar's withdrawal as a candidate accompanied that of Gen. Torres.

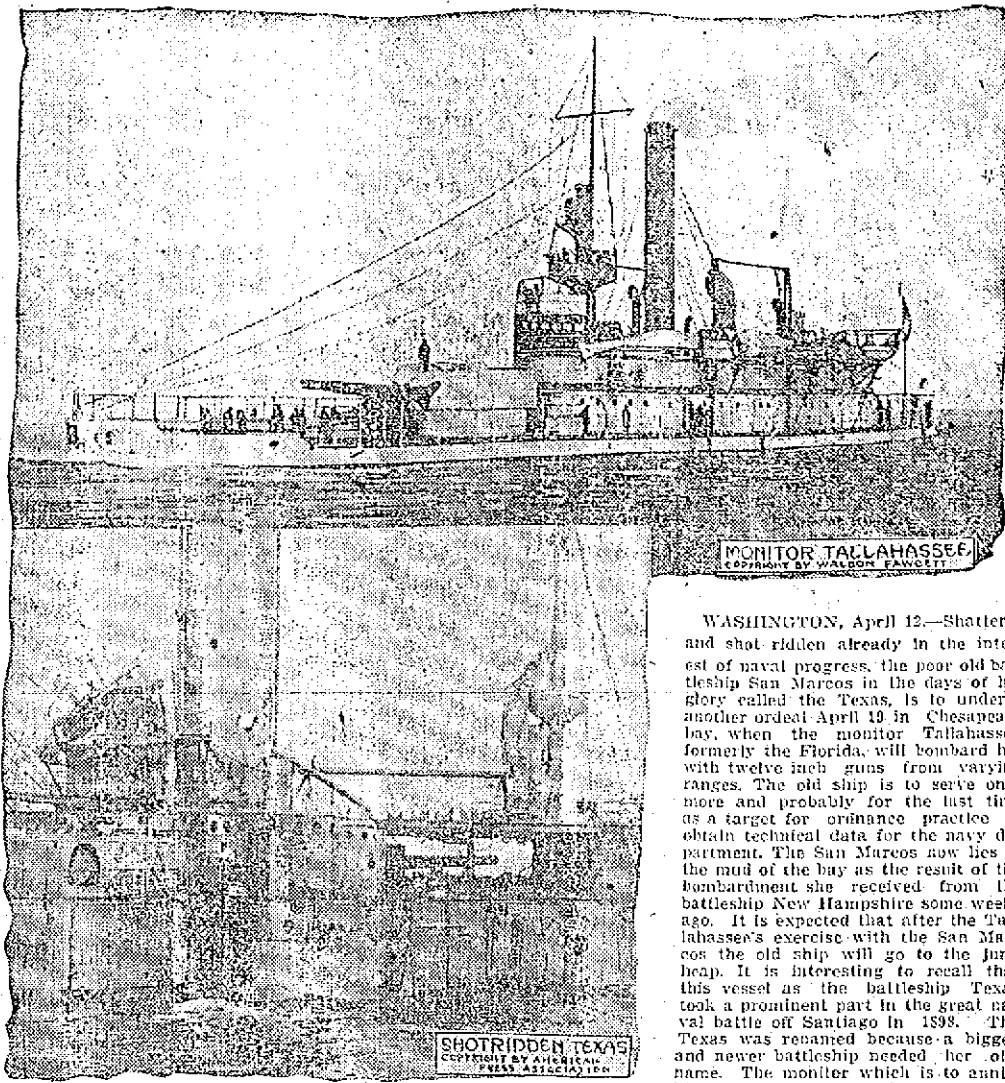

KILLED BY CAR POOR OLD SAN MARCOS TO BE ANNIHILATED BY SHOTS

Child Attempted to Cross Street

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 12.—Attempting to cross South Main street today, Cecilia Solomon, 10 years old, was struck and killed by a heavy trolley car used for construction work.
The child was caught underneath a large fender and rolled along the street for a distance of about 50 feet before the car stopped. Her body was crushed almost beyond recognition.
David Northrup, the motorman in charge of the car, was taken into custody by the police but was later discharged. The accident occurred almost in front of the clothing store of the child's father, Joseph Solomon.

that the outward bound Westford and

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Shattered and shot riddled already in the interest of naval progress, the poor old battleship San Marcos in the days of her glory called the Texas, is to undergo another ordeal April 19 in Chesapeake bay, when the monitor Tallahassee, formerly the Florida, will bombard her with twelve inch guns from varying ranges. The old ship is to serve once more and probably for the last time as a target for ordnance practice to obtain technical data for the navy department. The San Marcos now lies in the mud of the bay as the result of the bombardment she received from the battleship New Hampshire some weeks ago. It is expected that after the Tal-lahassee's exercise with the San Marcos the old ship will go to the junk heap. It is interesting to recall that this vessel as the battleship Texas took a prominent part in the great naval battle off Santiago in 1898. The Texas was renamed because a bigger and newer battleship needed her old name. The monitor which is to annihilate her also gave up the name Florida to a new battleship.

ST. LOUIS, April 12.—As a climax to the broadside of suits on notes and several years of business adversity during which he lost several million dollars, E. G. Lewis, owner of the St.

Louis Star, mayor of University City, and owner of the greater part of that municipality, has arranged to transfer

SENATOR FRYE

May Retire as President Pro Tem.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—The venerable William F. Frye, senator from Maine for thirty years, is in such poor health that in all probability he will retire from his position as president pro tempore of the senate, which he has occupied for fifteen years. Senator

Frye will reach his eightieth birthday September 2, next. He is one of the best known men in the senate. For 30 years he has been in politics and most of the time in legislative posts. His first legislative service was in the Maine legislature, to which he was elected in 1861. Altogether he has served forty-two years in congress.
He entered the senate from the lower house as successor to James G. Blaine.
As president pro tempore, Senator Frye presided over the senate after the death of Vice President Hobart until Roosevelt became vice president. Then when Roosevelt succeeded McKinley as president, Senator Frye was the presiding officer of the senate for three and a half years.

Target Practice Bill

It was learned at the office of the lands and buildings department today that there is some doubt as to the department's ability to pay Co. G's $250 bill for rifle practice recommended by the committee on military affairs.
Alderman Connors claimed the credit of discovering that the lands and buildings department had received an appropriation for this specific purpose.
The fact of the matter is that no appropriation for that specific purpose was made. The appropriation committee allowed the lands and buildings department $300 to pay rifle practice bills for the different militia companies and to defray the expense of the rifle range, including telephone, targets, pasters, etc. The department asked for $500 and Mr. Dow believed that he was cutting it down to the last notch.
About $200 of the $300 has already been spent for the purpose for which it was intended and Company G will have to wait a while unless the appropriation committee will consent to some sort of transfer to cover it. It is possible that part of the bill may be paid next month.

Great Disappointment

There was great disappointment at city hall last night because of the failure of the common council to proceed to the election of a principal assessor and superintendent of streets. In some quarters it was all out and dried that Charlie Morse would be elected superintendent of streets by the council and that he would have smooth sailing in the board of aldermen. From another quarter came the information that Robert E. Crowley was to be elected superintendent of street and that to balance accounts the democrats would vote for Frederick W. Farnham for principal assessor. It was stated that Messrs. Crowley and Farnham were in caucus with the councilmen, but that was denied. The democrats caucused for about two hours but subsequent results proved that they cau-cused in vain. The wise pots who were giving "straight tips" and "pressing what would happen, even to the very number of ballots, did not seem the least ashamed when the council adjourned without snoring or embracing a single candidate, which only goes to show that the average pot is without shame.

Patent Medicine Danger

At the next meeting of the common council, John J. Coughlin will introduce an order prohibiting or regulating the careless distribution of patent medicines throughout the city. Mr.
Coughlin has learned that patent medicines in liquid and pill form have been left on piazzas and doorsteps and have been taken by children who found them there. One child is reported to have died from the effect of pills which she found on a doorstep and swallowed.
Councilman Coughlin has asked the city solicitor to look into the matter and report. Mr. Coughlin contends that the stuff should be delivered to the householder and not left on the piazza or doorstep.

was a novice. The second round was closer by a shade. Klaus sent Gardner to his knees with a left swing to the head in the third round. Gardner was soon on his feet and sent a series of blows in to Klaus' mid-section. The Pittsburgher across the ring took a big lead in the fourth round, landing on Gardner's head three times. In the fifth Klaus ripped a vicious blow to the body, but the Lowell boxer recovered instantly and sent Jabs and upper cuts to the face and checked a boxer attack. In the sixth Klaus landed on Gardner's face and then sent a stiff left swing to the body. Gardner sent a series of jabs and upper cuts to Klaus' face, confusing the Pittsburgher so that he missed any blows. Neither of the men was marked or felled at the end of the bout.

TO SAVE CHILDREN From Accidental Drowning in the Local Canals

Common Council Takes Action and Appoints Committee — Refused to Confirm H. F. Carr—$800 for Playgrounds

If the members of the common council are as much given to procrastination in their private business as they are in the performance of the city's business they are losing a whole lot of valuable time. Once upon a time there was a common council president who refused to stand for such delay and the result was that meetings during his time as president were called on time and the members learned that if they wanted to be counted in at roll call they had to get there on time. But, alas, the reign of this particular president is a thing of the past and now the greater portion of the time that should be devoted to the city's business is spent in idle quibbling and political squabbling.

Last night's meeting was scheduled for 8 o'clock and that is the regular hour for city council meetings, but the meeting was not called until 9:52. The business of the caucuses held must have been very important for upon convening a few minor papers were cleared away and one ballot taken for park commissioner. Then the council adjourned and the able statesmen walked unobtrusively away.

The appointment of Henry F. Carr for park commissioner to succeed Percy Parker was refused confirmation. A communication from Frank K. Stearns asking $300 for salary due him for services as police commissioner was referred to the committee on claims.

An order for $800, introduced by Councilman Chapman, for improvement of playgrounds was passed with the amendment that it include any new playgrounds that may be added during the summer.

A resolution introduced by Councilman Tracy, asking the park commission to secure figures on a tract of land at the junction of Whipple and Watson streets for playground purposes, was adopted.

Councilman Coughlin's order relative to the appointment of a committee to arrange for the safeguarding of the canals with emergency boats, ladders and fences was favorably acted upon and Councilmen Coughlin, Achin, and Davis were appointed to the committee. In speaking of the order Mr. Coughlin said:

The records of drowning casualties for past years have been appalling. It is doubtful if Venice, with rivers for streets has had as many cases in that line as we have had. For years, throughout the city, there has been a vague discussion as to the best way of preventing such accidents but nothing in the proper line of action was forthcoming, and six or seven weeks ago I interviewed Supt. Welch, His Honor, the mayor, and numerous citizens, and while from their talk I felt that I saw several ways possible to handle the subject, I still felt that a committee could look well into the matter and go over the ground very carefully and accomplish grand results.

This committee will need sand and backbone to see this order pushed through to a finish.

Men struggle to accumulate money and the very successful ones hand together and form into powerful corporations who in the declaring of dividends or profit sharing, place all else as nothing; even human life is only a side issue. This committee will undoubtedly have to confront such men, so I say they should have backbone and stamina.

Mr. Chairman, this body is an ideal body and if they do nothing else all year but to see this order to its proper enactment they will go down to posterity as having performed something extremely worthy.

I feel Mr. Chairman, it would be an insult to the intelligence of any man to ask him if he would vote in favor of having this committee appointed, for every man here has a good heart and a Christian conscience.

Mr. Coughlin then read a strong appeal from Harry W. J. Howe, of the board of charities, for the safe guarding of the rivers and in which it was stated that nearly every one of the lives lost in the canals during the past 75 years could have been averted had the canals been properly fenced, and that more lives are swallowed up in our unfenced waterways each year than had been blotted out on the railroad crossings for the abolition of which a million dollars is being expended.

Mr. Howe's communication was in part, as follows:

As the springtime nears, we will soon begin to record the season's usual accidental drownings in our canals, because human lives have not been safeguarded and the perilous waters of the city not properly fenced.

Let there be memorial tablets containing the names of the hundreds of canal victims, and beside the portraits of John A. Lowell and Kirk Bont, the founders of this great manufacturing center, let there be a portrait appropriately designed and hung on the walls of the city council chambers, a picture of a frantic broken-hearted mother, standing on the bank of a canal, her feeble arms outstretched, as she stands there sobbing for the beloved child that has gone down and perished in the dark surging waters before her. Then beneath that tablet let there be written, "Who is responsible?"

The canals penetrate into the very heart of our city. They flow through the most congested districts. They are owned and operated by powerful influential non-resident interests which have been important factors in making Lowell the city that it is today, commercially.

But by the utter indifference of the men in authority and the entire disregard of the value of human life, these canals have for the past half century or more been unprotected and many hundreds of young lives have through

accident been blotted out and sacrificed, homes brought to grief and hearts saddened, because someone responsible has not taken proper care and seen to it that the banks of our city's waterways were properly fenced.

The management of a large financial corporation or the officials of this city of Lowell in authority should be obliged by an aroused public sentiment, to close those "death traps" throughout the entire city. The officials of the city of Lowell have in past years been recreant in not placing the important value on human life that they should, and who is the city of Lowell? Is it the powerful financial corporation, indifferent to the value of human life and the welfare of the people of this city, whom city authorities it may be in days gone by, have feared to demand that the lives of the youth of their city should be protected from these open "pit-falls" because it necessitated an expenditure of a few thousand dollars on the part of a wealthy corporation?

No! The city of Lowell represents the father toiling in our mills, our factories and our shops. The men and women who are grinding out the dividends for the owners, many of whom reside out of our own city.

The city of Lowell represents the sacrificial mother, quietly engaged in the hard routine of the household duties of life; the men and women in every walk of life; the children growing up, attending our schools, the future men and women, soon to assume the responsibilities of home and citizenship. This human tragedy has been going on for years, permitted, because of cupidity, stupidity and brutal indifference and neglect of duty, and the man or woman of Lowell who will not protest in consequence of these tragedies is without public or personal conscience.

A pall of gloom has hung over many hundreds of families of the lowly people of this city who have been without influence, and their voices could not be heard.

Nearly everyone of the lives lost in the canals during the past seventy-five years could have been averted, had those canals been properly fenced.

If one-half dozen of the hundreds of unfortunate children who have gone to watery grave through these open traps of death had been the offspring of parents with money and influence, instead of the children of the humble, poor workman with limited income, there would be today a ten foot picket fence along every foot of our canal banks. Child life is no sweeter or dearer, nor is parental love more touching to the parent living in your residential section or mine, than to the heart of the father and mother who make their home in the poorer districts. The child's life is just as precious to the father and mother living in the hovels of a twelve-tenement block in "Little Canada" as the little angel who graces and brightens the cultured and palatial home in our suburbs.

A million of dollars is being expended in our city abolishing grade crossings, principally in order to safeguard human life, and more lives are swallowed up in our unfenced waterways each year than have been blotted out on these railroad crossings in a half-century.

In conclusion Mr. Howe appealed for action to prevent drowning accidents, concluding with these lines:

"What is the answer, ye men that have power?
Do something for God's sake,—this Don't preach and investigate,
Wake up and do!
Flesh and blood are both crying to you."

The petitioners for two additional rooms at the Bartlett school were given leave to withdraw.

The vote for confirmation of Henry F. Carr as a member of the park commission was defeated by a vote of 14 to 13. These voting against were Achin, Board, Hennessey, Chapman, Cheney, Delaronde, Fulton, Genest, Hamlett, C. B. Rogers, J. J. Rogers, Taylor and Whitte.

TARGET PRACTICE SUM OF $250 TO BE PAID COMPANY G

The committee on military affairs met last night and voted to recommend that payment of $250 to Company G for target practice. The matter was explained by members of the company. It was another case of Alderman Connors to the rescue. He informed the committee that the superintendent of lands and buildings had been voted the sum of $250 by the appropriations committee for Company G and later it was announced that the bill would be paid the 10th of next month.

RUSSIA OBJECTS

To American Railways
in Asia Minor

ST. PETERSBURG, April 12.—That Russia is opposed to American railway projects in Asia Minor is for the first time officially acknowledged in an interview which the editor of the Novoye Vremya has had with the acting minister of foreign affairs, M. Neratoff. The minister informed the editor that Russia regarded the recent acquisition of a railroad outlet at Alexandretta by Germany with indifference, as Alexandretta is outside the direct sphere of Russian interests.

On being asked why Russia, according to reports, had intervened and insisted that Turkey reject the American railroad project of securing an outlet at Mersina, the minister replied that the American proposals introduced into Asia Minor an entirely new element, which not only considerably complicated the railroad problem, but affected the general political situation in which Russia was interested.

Woman Seized With a Fit of Temporary Insanity

12-Year-Old Girl Was Strangled to Death—She Was Attacked While Asleep—She Begged of Her Mother Not to Kill Her

BOSTON, April 12.—During what is believed to have been a fit of temporary insanity, Mrs. Clara Russell, strangled her 12-year old daughter, Marjorie, to death at their home in 1191 Washington street in the Lower Mills section of Dorchester today. Mrs. Russell, who is about 45 years old, lived alone with her child, having been separated from her husband for several years.

The tragedy was disclosed this morning when Gilbert Munroe, an uncle of the child, called at Mrs. Russell's home. Munroe talked with the woman for a few minutes and then asked: "How is Marjorie?" "She is dead," replied Mrs. Russell.

"What has happened?" asked Munroe in amazement. "Oh, I killed her," answered Mrs. Russell. "I thought it was about time to put her out of the way," she added. Munroe immediately left the house and notified the police and Mrs. Russell was taken into custody. An investigation showed that the mother had strangled the child with a towel as the little one was asleep in bed. Mrs. Russell told the police that as she was tightening the towel about Marjorie's throat, the child awoke and begged the mother not to kill her but the woman did not heed her appeal.

The police arranged to have Mrs. Russell brought into the Dorchester municipal court on a murder charge during the day. She is believed to be demented.

Police Captain Hall said that Mrs. Russell said to him: "My husband has been living away from me for some time. This morning about 1 o'clock it came to me that it would be best to kill Marjorie. I got up and went to the bathroom and got a towel. I went back to the bed and Marjorie lay asleep. I looked at her a moment and then I pulled her over toward the edge of the bed and put the towel around her and began to tighten it. Marjorie awoke. She began to cry. She pleaded with me not to harm her. She said she loved me. But I could not stop when I got started. I don't know what possessed me to do the deed."

"Marjorie and I struggled for a long time. It must have been ten or fifteen minutes before she was still and I knew then that she was dead."

"Marjorie did not scream but pleaded with me while tears streamed down her face as she begged me not to hurt her. I was stronger than she was. Marjorie was a good girl. Every night before she went to sleep she knelt at the bedside and said her prayers. She prayed for me and for her father. She loved me and loved her father. She was always hoping that her father would return home. It may be that the fact that he was away and that Marjorie wanted him to come back knelt on my mind and had something to do with my taking her life."

"Poor little girl. She is dead now. But I thought I was doing right."

BUY YOUR TICKET ANNUAL MEETING

For 19th of April Banquet Without Delay

The Nineteenth of April committee met at city hall last evening, and devoted most of its time to a discussion of ways and means to make the banquet a success.

Chairman James O'Sullivan of the banquet committee, reported that there are still 900 banquet tickets unsold, although the banquet is one week away.

It is believed that the public will wait until the last moment and then rush for tickets while the committee would prefer that they purchase at once, so that a guarantee may be given the caterer.

It was announced that the Chelmsford Training school had volunteered its services for the banquet, and that they had been accepted. Tickets for the banquet, will go on sale today at the drug store of A. W. Dows & Co., corner of Merrimack and Central streets, who will conduct the downtown sale.

President Harvey B. Greene stated that tickets will also be on sale at the Highland conservatory.

The fact was emphasized that the banquet is for men and women, and it is not a full dress affair.

The general committee passed a vote requesting citizens to display the American flag on Patriots' Day and to decorate their residences and places of business along the line march.

The chief marshal reported that the parade looked better every day. Already 13 Grand Army posts have voted to parade, in addition to the many military and semi-military organizations. Nine mayors have written that they are coming to Lowell for the celebration.

Gen. Lawton post, of Lawrence, will come, and may bring the Sons of Veterans and the women affiliated with the Grand Army. The Lawrence delegation will come by special car.

The commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic has accepted an invitation to be present in the following letter:

My Dear Comrade:

I beg to acknowledge your letter of March 30th, giving your plans for April 19th. I hope to be able to take in the parade at 130 and the public service in the church observance Memorial hall at 4 o'clock. I shall leave Lowell for Concord on the 5:34 train. I shall leave Boston on the 12:30 train, due in Lowell at 1:30.

Sincerely yours in F. C. L., J. E. Gilman, Commander-in-Chief.

THE BEAUTIFUL HAIR THAT ARTISTS ADMIRE

(American Art and Artists.)

"Many a model's hair is ruined by soap and water. Have you not often seen long and glossy tresses deteriorate from the heat, crowning glory of woman to a faded, coarse, matted mass?"

"A portrait painter of renown advises his subjects to use only a dry shampoo before sittings. The best shampoo powder is easily made in the studio or at home. Put a half-pound of corn meal in a jar, add four ounces of amoniac and stir well. Sprinkle a tablespoonful over the hair and then brush it out thoroughly."

"Corn meal cleanses the scalp and hair roots, removing every particle of dirt, oil and dandruff, and amoniac makes the hair beautifully soft, fine and glossy, with the natural color heightened. It is said there is no better hair grower than amoniac."

Of Dracut Water Supply District

The annual meeting of the water supply district was held last night in George Hall, Dracut Centre, and although the attendance was rather limited, the meeting was an interesting one and considerable business was transacted.

The session was called to order by Clerk Peter Bolton and after he had read the call, George H. Stevens was unanimously chosen moderator under article one of the warrant. Under article two Peter Bolton was then elected clerk without opposition.

The election of an auditor then followed, and after two ballots were taken Christopher Bourke was elected to the position against Samuel Holgate by only one vote majority.

The water commissioners' report was accepted as printed under article 4, and Albert Hamblett was unanimously elected water commissioner for a term of three years.

Article 6. To see if the district will vote to raise by taxation the sum of $2000 for the purpose of paying two bonds now due.

The money was voted without opposition.

The next article called for a loan of $1500 to be used in anticipation of taxes. Passed.

Under article 9, $500 was voted for construction work during the year.

Article 11 was taken up. This called for an extension of the water main in Hildreth street from Pleasant street to the district line.

This was defeated.

Article 10 called for an extension of the water main from the residence of George Hunting in Staden street to the district line in order to supply William Bolton, who lives just outside the district limit. Under the article $400 was called for as the estimated cost to make the extension. Voted.

THE ALHAMBRA CIGAR

John Nolani, the wholesale and retail tobacconist, corner of Cabot and Merrimack streets, is making a specialty of the "Alhambra" Manila cigar, especially imported by Mr. Nolani for Lowell trade. These cigars are made from the finest selected sound Philippine tobacco growing in the Cagayan valley. They are made under the supervision of the bureau of health and are considered by connoisseurs to be the best five cent cigar on the market.

CHIEF OF POLICE

HUNTSVILLE, Kan., April 12.—Mrs. Ella Wilson took her seat as mayor and presided over the city council for the first time last night. Mrs. Osborne, it is understood, has agreed to accept that office provided she is given an assistant.

PASSOVER FEAST "CHAMPAGNE" RIOTS

To be Solemnly Opened at Sunset

The Sun presents today of the Jewish synagogue in McIntire street, the oldest and largest of the Jewish places of worship in Lowell, where at sunset this evening the faithful will assemble to observe the solemn feast of the Passover, which will continue for eight days. The feast commemorates the sparing of the Israelite's first born and the escape out of Egypt. It is sometimes called the "Feast of the Unleavened Bread" because such is used during the feast. A detailed account of the feast occurred in yesterday's Sun.

PRESIDENT HOBBS

Opened Meeting of Boston Mfg. Asso.

BOSTON, April 12.—"Misery likes company," said President Hobbs in his annual address before the opening session of the annual meeting of the Cotton Manufacturers' association in this city today in referring to the fact that the Lancashire cotton mills had been having hard sledding as well as those in the United States. The convention will be in session tomorrow. The delegates, many of whom attended the technology congress on Monday and yesterday, were welcomed by Gov. Foss, R. M. Miller, Jr. of Charlotte, N. C., replying to the association medal for 1910 was awarded to Charles T. Main of Boston in recognition of his contributions to textile publications.

In his annual address, President Hobbs said: "Last September I remarked that the cotton manufacturing industry has been in troublous times since we met in April last and I regret to state that the troublous times have been continued. The cotton crop has been a disappointment in size and character. It is one of the poorest and most wasteful known. Curtailment has been continued and the contest between the buyer, who is attempting to force down prices, and the manufacturer, who is trying to get at least cost for his product, continues and a most unsatisfactory condition has resulted. Buying is on a hand to mouth basis. Added to perplexing business conditions, there has been the upset political situation. Uncertainty of the future is the most dreaded condition in which business can get. Misery likes company and it may interest you to know that for the year ending November 30, 1910, 73 concerns in Lancashire, with a total paid up capital stock of $12,500,000 and an added down capital of $5,400,000 showed a loss of $1,215,000 after paying interest on loans and allowing for depreciation. The number of spindles represented was 5,773,196. These figures are the worst for 25 years.

"It is undoubtedly true that the consumption of cotton is steadily increasing each year and it seems equally true that this increase in consumption will continue. It is estimated that there are now on the earth 1,500,000,000 people, of whom only 500,000,000 are completely clothed, while 750,000,000 are only partially clothed and 500,000,000 practically do not possess any clothing at all. It is further estimated that to clothe the whole of humanity would require 42,000,000 bales of cotton each year in stead of 17,000,000, the last year's production of the world. The number of cotton spindles in the world has increased from 165,700,000 in 1900 to 134,500,000 in 1910, or 27.3 per cent.

"With increases of machinery which have been made it is evident that the consumption of the mills of the world on full time could not be less than 20,000,000 bales.

"The query thus arises: Where will the additional amount of cotton needed for the world and its increasing population come from?

"I think I am not too optimistic to believe that from the present acreage the American production could be doubled if proper methods were used and it is along such lines that our friends in the south must work to secure the best results for themselves and the spinners.

"We have the natural conditions needed, scientific knowledge, unequalled in the world, and all we need is to apply this knowledge to the soil and climate and we can well raise 50,000,000 bales of cotton. I trust that as a nation we may realize the possibilities of the situation and not stand still while other nations reap the benefit of our experience and take from our grasp the supremacy we have so long held as the greatest producer of cotton in the world.

Troops Have Been Called Out to Preserve Order

DANERY, Department of Maine, a result of the steps taken by the rioters, which began in this department yesterday, were continued this morning by the excited populace. Wine cellars are being destroyed and the disorder is spreading, in spite of the presence of troops called out to preserve order. The trouble began yesterday on the receipt of news from Paris that the senate had passed a resolution in favor of suppression of all editorial publications of the area in which wine can legally be designated as champagne. Seven thousand winegrowers left here this morning, marching on Epiphany, four miles distant, to destroy the cellars there.

The manifestos were admirably organized and were caused to a pitch of fever in the justice of their cause. During the progress of the advance they sang revolutionary hymns and waved red standards. This they did to show the government, which, they claim, has abandoned them to ruin. They declare the government acted as gates, who were much interested in a demonstration of cotton picking by machinery given by the New York man. The afternoon session was occupied by Walter S. Williams, James A. Lowell and John Sturgis Codman, all of Boston, who discussed technical and economic problems. Officers will be elected late tomorrow afternoon.

INCENDIARY BUSY

Four Fires Broke Out in Haverhill

HAVERHILL, April 12.—Four alarms of fire between 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 10 o'clock last night, two of which were for blazes of incendiary origin, have set the entire city in a state of excitement and caused City Marshal John J. Mack to search for the firebug. The total damage will not amount to more than $1500, but in two cases large quantities of lumber were in danger and only by quick work of the firemen was a conflagration prevented.

The first alarm was for a fire in St. James cemetery. The damage was slight. Hardly had the engines returned to their stations before an alarm was sounded for a blaze in the mortuary chapel of the same cemetery. Last night a freight car, loaded with boxwood, on a siding in the rear of a large brewery plant in the Bradford section of the city. The car with its contents was destroyed and investigation by the firemen and police proved that the blaze had been set. Shortly before 10 o'clock another alarm from the Bradford section called the apparatus to a fire in a large lumber shed in the rear of a tenement block adjoining the Taylor Goodwin company and several other large wood concerns. Damage was about $900. This fire was also set, it is believed.

THE COUNTY RING

Given Sad Jolt at the State House

BOSTON, April 12.—Quietly slipping into one of the many committee rooms at the State House yesterday, the committee on counties, at an unpublished hearing, sought to slip by the petition of Treasurer Joseph O. Hayden of Middlesex county to legalize the acts of his office, and that of the county treasurer of Essex county, but stumbled against a snag when David L. Robinson, treasurer of Essex county, declared that he had done any wrong he would pay back the money to the county rather than support such a bill.

The astounded republican county ring members of the committee sought to have him change his attitude and support the bill. Before he had spoken Treasurer Hayden had spoken in favor of the measure. The bill is to legalize the acts of these treasurers for the past three years.

Seek Legal Opinion

When it appeared Robinson had rather pay back money which might have been spent by his office over the amount allowed by statute, and after he had said he was not a party to the bill, although his name had been joined on it with that of County Treasurer Hayden of Middlesex, the committee heard Whitfield Tack of Winchester, who had been notified with others that the meeting was to be held and who also appeared in opposition.

HELEN M. HOUSTON

Beautiful Girl From Pine Tree
State in CustodyHad Adventures in Lowell—Her Name on Two Marriage Licenses Within a Week—She Comes of Wealthy Family—Father and Mother Divorced—Girl Was Taken From Coffee House in Market Street

Helen Madeline Houston, young and beautiful, is being detained at the police station, while Stephen Manoy, her father, is on the outside looking in. Helen Madeline came to Lowell about two weeks ago and yesterday afternoon she was taken in tow by a rescue party headed by Miss Emily Skilton of the Florence Crittenton society. She was taken from a coffee house in Market street.

The pretty Helen Madeline has had considerable experience of an undesirable brand within the last few weeks. She comes of one of the proudest of Maine's families. Dr. John A. Houston, superintendent of the Northampton hospital for the insane, is her uncle and she has another uncle who has large business interests in Portland, Me.

Her father and mother were divorced and Helen went with her mother. Helen's mother said so. She says she doesn't know where her father is at the present time and she thinks her mother is traveling in Europe. Helen says she lived with her mother in New York and later went to Portland, Me., to make her home with her grand-mother. She finally tired of Portland and went to Boston. She said she lived in the "Oriental district" in Boston for a couple of months and then came to Lowell with a party of Syrians who said they were putting on a show here.

She remained here and became betrothed to an Assyrian who went to the city clerk's office at city hall and obtained a marriage license. Armed with the license he marched back to the fair Helen and she demurred. She indicated him to take her to Boston where she gave him the slip and returned to Lowell.

A few days later she met a young Greek, Stephen Manoy by name, and she declares that it was a case of love at first sight. She told Stephen if he didn't want to lose her it was up to him to do a marriage to the city clerk's office and buy a marriage license. Stephen said "sure thing" and away he went. He was getting along all right at the city clerk's office until he was immediately recognized as the name that went down and out on a license only a few days ago and Stephen was told that he would have to produce the girl. Stephen said that was the easiest thing that ever happened and he proved the assertion by returning in a very few minutes, with the fair Helen Madeline Houston on his arm. She said she was 19 and that she was dead in love with Stephen. Asked about the other license she said she had given the other fellow the marble heart. She said that Stephen was the only man in the world for her and he snatched his satisfaction. The license was granted and here's how it reads: Stephen Manoy, 22, waiter, 454 Merrimack street, and Helen M. Houston, 19, waitress, 410 Merrimack street.

Helen M. fibbed twice just to make good on the license. She gave her age as 19 while as a matter of fact she will not be 17 until tomorrow. That fact was brought out in a controversy relative to jurisdiction in her case. It looked like a case for Agent Richardson of the Lowell Humane society. Seventeen is the age limit in his cases and as Helen M. will be 17 tomorrow Mr. Richardson allowed he wouldn't bother with the custody of her just for one day. Her second fib at the city clerk's office had to do with her occupation. She said she was a waitress, but she wasn't. The only waitress she indulged in was to wait for her father, her mother.

This is not by any means a pleasant story. Helen Madeline Houston is beautiful and accomplished. There is something about her that is absolutely irresistible to the girl who trips and falls. "She has fallen," Helen M. Houston is an educated girl and uses beautiful language. She is not what in police parlance would be called "tough." There is a certain element of refinement about her that will not wash away and it defies the surmise. She says she likes good people and that she abhors crime of any description. She does not indulge in actors' tears, but simply says that she would like to make a fresh start. She is more or less reticent regarding her history except that which has transpired within a few months. She is willing to tell of the bridge she has crossed since she came to Boston, but she has little to say of her life in New York.

Edward Trull, assistant clerk of the police court has telephoned to her uncles and grandmother and it is expected that somebody who has her welfare at heart will come here and take her away. She said she had access in her head sometime ago and they are probably responsible for her actions of late. There is no disposition on the part of Miss Skilton or anybody connected with the police court or station to send the girl away. They are only anxious to turn her over to some one who will care for and advise her.

CIVIL SESSION VERDICT RETURNED IN FAVOR OF THE PLAINTIFF

At the civil session of the police court this afternoon, Judge Hadley rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Richard Drouin vs. Gideon Carrier, an action of tort. The plaintiff claimed that on August 26 of the past year he was in the employ of the defendant and was working in a cellar in Sydney street, when Carrier pushed him. He fell on a piece of timber and sustained a sprained ankle. He claimed he has been confined to the hospital for some time and has not been able to work since. The defendant on his side denied ever having a hand in Drouin's case. Several witnesses were heard and the court after summing up the evidence rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff in the sum of $10.50 a week for each week from August 26 to the present time.

Case of Rabbi Wolfson vs. Louis

for Being Ten Minutes Late
This Morning—Case Against

Lawyer M. W. Cohen, counsel for the defense in the case of Rabbi Elias Wolfson against his son-in-law, Louis Price, was severely reprimanded by Judge Morton when he entered the civil session of the superior court ten minutes late this morning. The court informed Mr. Cohen that there was no reason for him being ten minutes late and asked him what excuse he had to offer. Mr. Cohen said he did not realize that it was so late and said he was sorry to have kept the court waiting. "That doesn't cure matters," was the court's response.

Mr. Wolfson, who was on the stand at the time of adjournment yesterday afternoon, took the stand at the opening of this morning's session and Lawyer Cohen resumed his cross-examination of the witness.

"When you sent Mr. Freeman to see Mr. Price in reference to your daughter's marriage what did you say?"

"The question was objected to by Mr. Pratt and excluded by the court."

"Yes."

"Where did you first meet Mr. Price?"

"Mr. Price came to my home. Mr. Freeman introduced him to me and he met my daughter for the first time. I never told him what I would do for him. After Mr. Freeman said he had seen Mr. Price about the marriage to my daughter I said that if they would like one another and agree to have each other, I would give my consent."

"Did you say at any time that you would be willing to spend between $500 and $700?"

"I said it would cost me about $400 or $500 to furnish everything for the wedding. I didn't promise him anything at all."

"Isn't it a custom among your people to give a daughter what is called a dowry when she is about to get married?"

"It isn't a custom unless a man is able to."

"You wanted your daughter to marry Mr. Price?"

"Yes."

"You knew that he was doing a small business?"

"I never went to his store."

"You mean to say that you never made an investigation as to how much business he was doing?"

"I investigated the history of his life, but didn't bother about the store."

"You said something about purchasing clothes for your daughter. How much did they cost?"

"I don't know and $500."

"When the furniture was purchased from Mr. Brian, the furniture was charged to you and the bill sent to you?"

"Yes, sir."

"All the furniture was purchased after Mr. Price and your daughter came back from their wedding tour?"

"Yes, sir."

"You and Mr. Price were exchanging checks from time to time?"

"Yes, sir."

"He used to borrow money from me."

"How often did Mr. Price keep a loan of yours for more than a month?"

"I could not say."

At this point a check was handed to the witness and Lawyer Cohen asked: "This note on which you claim now—this $500 note—when was that signed by Mr. Price?"

"November 3, 1908."

"At that time how much did Mr. Price owe you other than this note?"

"Over $500."

"How long had he owed you that money?"

"He had borrowed the money from time to time."

Lawyer Cohen then questioned Mr. Wolfson relative to the different amounts he had advanced to Mr. Price, also the dates on which he loaned the money. With the assistance of books and checks, Mr. Wolfson gave the dates and amounts of different loans. Witness said all of the loans were not made by notes, for on a number of occasions he had given cash to Mr. Price. The amounts of the loans varied, the largest one being $311.

"Did you send Mr. Goldman to Mr. Price?" asked Mr. Cohen.

"I did."

"You were mad with Mr. Price at the time?"

"He was mad with me."

"What did you tell Mr. Goldman to say to Mr. Price?"

"I didn't tell him anything."

"After Mr. Goldman came back with a check for $500, payable upon demand what did you do with the note?"

"I went to the bank and tried to get money, but could not get any."

"How soon after you got that note did you put a keeper in Mr. Price's store?"

"About eight or nine months later."

"During the course of Mr. Wolfson's testimony, he said that whenever Mr. Price was short he had Mr. Price's checks charged up to his account."

Mr. Wolfson admitted that at the time he sent Mr. Goldman to Mr. Price he was financially embarrassed.

Jacob Freeman, who made arrangements for the meeting between Mr. Price and Mr. Wolfson's daughter, which subsequently resulted in the marriage of the couple, was the next witness called. He resides in Howard street, this city, and admitted that he was the person who saw Mr. Price relative to his (Price's) marrying Mr. Wolfson's daughter.

"Who sent you to Mr. Price?"

"I spoke to Mr. Price about marrying Mr. Wolfson's daughter and then I went to see Mr. Wolfson."

"Did Mr. Wolfson have any other conversation with you?"

"On two or three different occasions."

"Will you tell us what the conversation was?"

Witness said that they discussed matters relative to the proposed marriage of Mr. Price to Mr. Wolfson's daughter and that Mr. Wolfson said he was willing to spend about $500 or $700 for the expenses of the wedding.

Mr. Price was recalled and denied that Mr. Wolfson ever loaned him any cash, that all of the loans were by check.

The testimony being all in, Messrs. Pratt and Cohen made their arguments after which Judge Morton charged the jury.

At 2:50 o'clock the jury returned to the court room for instructions and the foreman, speaking for the members of the jury said the jury wished to know whether or not the defendant could give the plaintiff an accommodation note for $500 without consideration, knowing that he (the defendant) owed him $125 which had been admitted. The court gave the jury the necessary information and the members retired to their room to further discuss the case.

Shortly before four o'clock the jury returned a verdict of $125 for the plaintiff.

Suit Against Boston & Northern

Yesterday the case of Mathilda Lord, administratrix of the estate of her late husband, Edmund Lord, against the Boston & Northern Street Railway Co. was taken while the court was waiting for the arrival of a witness in the Wolfson-Price case. Mr. Lord died, it is alleged, from injuries received while he was riding on a Lawrence street car on June 12, 1909. It is alleged that the car was crowded, and Mr. Lord was standing on the running board, that the conductor, in going forward to the rear of the car, on the running board, had some difficulty, owing to the crowded condition of the car—passengers standing between the seats—in catching a post on the car and in doing so he caused Mr. Lord to fall under the wheels of the car.

Mr. Lord, severely injured, was taken to St. John's hospital, where he died

Committee Reports Favorably on

Rep. Barlow's Bill

Bill Will Mean Additional Revenue
to State of Nearly a Million Per
Burdensome State Tax

Rep. Erson B. Barlow, of this city, was the happiest man in Lowell today when he learned that the committee on taxation had reported favorably without a dissenting vote on his bill to tax stock transfers in Massachusetts.

Rep. Barlow's bill provides for a two per cent. tax per $100 on all transfers of stock, a matter which will net the state an additional revenue of three-quarters of a million dollars annually.

The idea of the bill was to acquire some additional source of revenue for the state in order to keep down the ever increasing state tax. The state tax of 1900 was $1,500,000. In 1910 it was $5,500,000, an increase in 10 years of $4,000,000. The state tax is met by every city and town in the commonwealth.

In the legislature all sorts of schemes were suggested for getting more revenue for the state to keep down this tax and Rep. Barlow's suggestion that stock transfers be placed under a light tax, met with favor and he introduced the bill. At first the only member of the committee on taxation to favor his project was Senator Barnes of Weymouth, but by persistent effort he succeeded finally in converting the entire committee to his way of thinking. For eight weeks the committee has been trying to report the bill but was met with a firm opposition from State street interests which strove to have the bill thrown out. It has been reported with dissent, however, and Rep. Barlow is now confident that it will become law.

WORTHLESS CHECK

Walter Hartwell Alleged to Have Passed One in This City

Walter W. Hartwell was arrested this afternoon by Lieut. Martin Maher on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $27.50 from John P. Lazarakis, cigarette manufacturer and grocer at 346 Suffolk street.

Lazarakis, the man who swore out the warrant claiming that Hartwell went into his place of business on several occasions and introduced himself as a government inspector under the new cigarette law, and every time he would come in to the store it is alleged he would call for two or three packages of cigarettes saying he was sending them to Washington for inspection.

Saturday night he paid another visit to the storekeeper and asked him to cash a check for him. The check was drawn on the Union National bank to the amount of $27.50, and made payable to Walter W. Hartwell. The latter endorsed the note and Lazarakis cashed it. Monday when Lazarakis went to the bank to make a deposit, the check was dishonored and as a consequence a warrant was issued for the arrest of Hartwell. The latter was apprehended near city hall this afternoon by Lieut. Maher and locked up on a complaint of larceny. He will be arraigned in court tomorrow morning.

J. W. McEvoy appears for the plaintiff, Trull & Wier for defense.

Afternoon Session

Shortly after the opening of this afternoon's session the case was resumed. Lawyer Wier explained that this case was different from other cases which had been tried (this term) inasmuch as all the jury had to do in this case was to return a verdict either for the plaintiff or defendant and in the event of the jury finding for the plaintiff that the members of the panel were not to assess damages as is usual in nearly all actions of tort, because, said Mr. Wier, counsel on both sides conferred with the court this morning and agreed on the damages in case the jury found for the plaintiff.

Twenty witnesses for defense were sworn in, but when the court glanced over the long line of people and gave Mr. Wier an inquiring look, Mr. Wier stated that he did not intend to use all the witnesses.

Dr. P. A. Colwell of St. John's hospital identified the record of Mr. Lord's case and the record was admitted as evidence.

Benjamin Carter, who had known Mr. Lord for many years, was called and testified that he saw him on the car from which the latter fell.

"Were you at the cricket game?" asked Mr. Wier.

"Yes," said Mr. Carter. "It was the first time and last time in my life."

"Continuing the witness said: "We met on the electric car. I was waiting for a car and when it came along I jumped on and got a seat, but he stood on the running board. I was speaking with him on the way towards the city when all of a sudden he threw up his hands and dropped off the car. The conductor was nowhere near him when he fell."

Cross-examined by Mr. McEvoy, Mr. Carter said he didn't know where the cricket grounds were, didn't want to know; never heard tell of Davis square in Wigginton, the only Davis square he knew was in Lowell; and he was unable to state at what point Mr. Lord fell off the car other than that it was somewhere between the cricket grounds and the post office.

Mr. Carter's memory was very poor and he was unable to answer many of the questions put to him. He was unable to state at what point Mr. Lord boarded the car and said: "If I knew I would tell you instantly."

Witness said he had known Mr. Lord for four or five years, but never knew of his having a fainting spell before the day of the accident. That is nothing unusual, said the witness. I had a fainting spell last week and didn't have one before for 40 years.

Mrs. Margaret Higgins, who was a passenger on the car on which Mr. Lord was riding, testified to seeing the latter standing on the running board of the car. She said her attention was attracted to him because he was a very

In a Message to the Legislature Hits Tax Dodging

BOSTON, April 12.—Gov. Foss yesterday sent to the legislature a message urging members to unite in asking the supreme court for its opinion upon the power of the legislature to levy taxes.

The message is a direct consequence of the revelations in regard to the Quincy A. Shaw estate assessment in Boston and the recent return of the trustees to the assessors showing that the estate had been greatly undervalued.

The order for the opinion of the supreme court was introduced into the house several days ago by Hanley of Malden for the committee on taxation, which has before it two bills covering the points contained in the governor's message. The order has been passed several times for debate. The governor wants something done in the matter, hence his stirring up of the legislature.

Some critics thought they saw in this message interference with legislation, but Gov. Foss laughed at the suggestion and added he didn't believe anybody would seriously question his right to communicate his views on public questions.

The governor in his message said: "In order that our present tax laws may be amended it is absolutely necessary that your constitutional authority be determined by our supreme court."

"I therefore urge upon all your members to unite in asking the supreme court for such a decision. When such determination has been reached you can attack the problem of improving our methods of apportioning and enforcing taxes with some hope of success.

"The evasion of the tax laws, whether due to the desire to evade just burdens or to weakness in the system of taxation itself, cannot be tolerated in any country that is and desires to remain free.

"Such evasion debauches private morals and destroys the foundation of good citizenship. It converts our tax laws into agents of injustice and oppression and thereby strikes at the basis of political justice. It creates favored classes and arouses the resentment of the less favored classes against them and thus contributes to class hatred and prejudice.

GOV. CONZALES

WILL ASK FOR REVISION OF ELECTORAL LAWS

GUANAJUATO, Mex., April 13.—In partial accordance with the desires of the committee of Guanajuato business men who recently appealed to the president for a change in the governorship of the state, Governor Obregon Gonzales yesterday proposed to the legislature an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the re-election of a governor.

The governor also stated that once this amendment was enacted, he would propose a measure providing for a revision of the electoral laws.

Edgar Offenders in Police Court Today

The police court session lasted just 30 minutes this morning. If it keeps on Lowell is on the verge of becoming a spotless town again, for there were only three drunken offenders before the court, two of them being first offenders, who were fined $2 each, while the other, Michael J. Sayers, who was under a suspended sentence to the state farm, had his former sentence revoked and affirmed. The defendant appealed, and he was held in the sum of $200. His face seemed as if it had come in contact with a telegraph pole, for it was badly swollen and bore several deep cuts.

Edgar Cameron, who yesterday was found guilty of larceny of clothing and various other articles from Helge Lagergren, and whose sentence was deferred till today, was this morning sentenced to the Massachusetts reformatory, after the court had been informed that all of the stolen goods had been recovered.

Alexandre Dupont, charged with the larceny of $8.80 from Athos Saphos, entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued till Saturday morning. The defendant being held in the sum of $200. The government claims that the money was taken from Saphos' pocket while the latter was working in the dye house of the Merrimack mills.

WHY PILE BUFFERERS SO OFTEN FAIL TO GET RELIEF

Science is getting to the bottom of everything, including the cause and cure of piles. The brightest doctors now admit that piles are caused by internal treatment. Dr. J. S. It is sold by Carter & Sherburne, Lowell, Mass., and druggists everywhere, under money-back guarantee. $1 for 24 days' treatment. Dr. Leonard, Co., Station B, Buffalo, N. Y. Write for booklet.

$20,000 AWARD

Bravery of Two Men is Recognized

NEW YORK, April 12.—The bravery of Orlavus Juve and John J. McGlynn, who risked their lives to save 50 of their fellows while working on the Queensboro bridge in 1907, was rewarded by the appellate division of the supreme court in Brooklyn yesterday by the award of $20,000 damages to each of the men, with interest and costs.

The men were in charge of placing in position some large iron plates on the tower of the bridge. One of these slipped from its supports and would have fallen in the midst of some 30 men who were working below if Juve and McGlynn had not used their skill and muscle to deflect it. In so doing their hands were crushed to pieces, costing them their usefulness in a trade at which they had earned from $30 to $40 a week.

Their suit for damages was won in a lower court and now sustained by the appellate division, which was against the Pennsylvania Steel Co., who had the contract for steel work on the bridge.

PRINCESS IRENE

SUFFERED ONLY A BROKEN RUDDER POST

NEW YORK, April 12.—Divers made an examination yesterday of the steamer Princess Irene and confirmed that the only damage which she suffered in the grounding on Fire Island beach was a broken rudder post. She will go to Newport News for a more thorough examination.

It is said that Captain S. von Lottin Petersen will take the steamer back to Genoa, although he may later be transferred to some other vessel.

The cost of the Irene's misadventure is estimated at from $100,000 to $150,000.

THE OPERA HOUSE

That play of mystery and weirdness, "The House of a Thousand Candles," a dramatization of Meredith Nicholson's novel of the same name and which is the current bill at the Opera House this week loses none of its whimsical and fascinating interest in its stage form and as presented by this clever company of players is proving a drama of strong dramatic scenes and situations that elicit numerous curtain calls at each climax. The part of "Bates," the enigma, in the hands of Stanley Forrest, is as clever a bit of acting as he has given here. Benedict MacGinnie, as the fiery young "Glenham," is good, Frank Christie is admirable as "Larry Donovan." Miss Whitehouse, makes a charming "Marion Devereux," while the remainder of the company are seen to advantage. The settings for this production deserve more than passing notice and go far to make the production an effective one. "The House of a Thousand Candles" will be presented every afternoon and evening this week and after the Thursday matinee another of the popular receptions will be held on the stage. Seats for all performances are on sale at the box office.—Adv.

"THE BATTLE"
An absorbing story is "The Battle." It is a forceful drama of contemporary life, which created a profound impression when produced with Willson Lackaye, in the principal role. "The Battle" occupied the stage of the Savoy theatre, New York, all last season, and for a long period was the talk of the country, because of the unusual interest displayed in the story of this vital drama, by the millionaire masses. The play was written by Cleveland Moffett, who is a noted contributor to the leading magazines, and a student of the all-absorbing topic of labor and capital. In "The Battle" he has assumed a novel attitude on the great question, one which will undoubtedly create much discussion. The story of "The Battle" concerns the masses and the classes, with both sides fully represented. Usually the classes are contented to get the money and let the masses do the preaching, but Mr. Moffett has presented a new angle, with his millionaire trust magnate, John J. Haggleton. It is also important to note that some of the telling speeches with which Haggleton confounds his antagonist, were written by none other than John D. Rockefeller, who was attracted to the drama by the force of Mr. Moffett's writings. So that altogether "The Battle" is in more than one respect unique among modern dramas, and should prove a splendid vehicle for the Thompson-Plynn stock company, at the Opera House next week and comedy. Miss Estelle in the leading role is called upon for emotional acting which she presents in most clever manner. All of the feminine roles are exceptionally strong and are finely done by Miss Lillian Neiderauer, Miss Allen and Miss Dutton. Mr. DeDeyn is seen to excellent advantage as a lover, while Mr. Meek again demonstrates his marked versatility by accompany of players is proving a drama of strong dramatic scenes and situations that elicit numerous curtain calls at each climax. The part of "Bates," the enigma, in the hands of Stanley Forrest, is as clever a bit of acting as he has given here. Benedict MacGinnie, as the fiery young "Glenham," is good, Frank Christie is admirable as "Larry Donovan." Miss Whitehouse, makes a charming "Marion Devereux," while the remainder of the company are seen to advantage. The settings for this production deserve more than passing notice and go far to make the production an effective one. "The House of a Thousand Candles" will be presented every afternoon and evening this week and after the Thursday matinee another of the popular receptions will be held on the stage. Seats for all performances are on sale at the box office.—Adv.

EVERYBODY UP! TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

The Base Ball Season of 1911
Opened Today

BOSTON, April 12.—The professional baseball season in the American and National leagues formally opened today.

Today's schedule is as follows:

National League

Brooklyn at Boston.
Philadelphia at New York.
Pittsburg at Cincinnati.
St. Louis at Chicago.

American League

New York at Philadelphia.
Boston at Washington.
Chicago at Detroit.
Cleveland at St. Louis.

It's a great day overhead but only flies and home runs are going that way and in the grand stand and bleachers the fans are huddled together roofing with chattering teeth, but on deck nevertheless.

Brooklyn opens with Fred Tenney's team in Boston and quite a number of Lowell fans went down for the opening game.

The Red Sox are playing in Washington today under more favorable climatic conditions.

BROOKLYN 9, LAWRENCE 0

LAWRENCE, April 12.—The Brooklyn Nationals dedicated the new Riverside park ball grounds here yesterday by administering a whitewash to the Lawrence New England team, 9 to 0. Previously Mayor John T. Cahill broke a bottle of wine over the home plate to christen the grounds and the teams and band paraded about the diamond.

Hummel, second baseman for the visitors was the star, getting a home run in the first inning and another in the second. The score:

BOSTON NATIONALS 3, YALE 1

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 12.—The Boston Nationals defeated Yale here yesterday, 3 to 1, both teams making their runs in the first inning. Yale's score came on a hit by Corey, an error by Boston and Steven's hit. Boston's runs were mainly due to errors. The features of the game were a double play by Loutchell and Scott of Yale in the seventh and the playing of Herzog for Boston. Yale used three pitchers, Freeman and Hartwell each pitching one inning and Scott the other seven. The score:

BOSTON NATIONALS 3, LYNN 0

LYNN, April 12.—The inability of the batters of the Lynn New England league team to connect with Burke's headers gave the Boston Nationals second team an exhibition game here yesterday by a score of 3 to 0. All the runs were scored in the first inning. Harrington opened the game for Lynn, but proved to be wild and was taken out of the box. Errors by Lynn's outfielders contributed to Boston's score in the first inning. The local men slugged down after the first inning. The score:

Batteries: Burke and Radford; Harrington, Zettler, McFarland and Carigan. Umpire—Henry.

CORNELL 3, DARTMOUTH 1

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 12.—Cornell defeated Dartmouth here yesterday by the score of 3 to 1. Score by innings:

Dartmouth 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1

Batteries: Nesbitt and Abbott, Morrey and Alden.

CINCINNATI 8, ROCHESTER 2

CINCINNATI, O., April 11.—Cincinnati defeated Rochester Eastern league team again yesterday, 8 to 2. Rain interfered with the game at the end of the seventh inning. The score:

Cincinnati, 8, 2; Rochester, 2, 5, 2
Batteries: Brown and McLeod, Sevier; Holmes, Manning and Mitchell, Graham.

NEW YORK 5, NEWARK 1

NEW YORK, April 12.—The New York Nationals defeated the Newark Eastern league team today, 5 to 1, in a game featured by the hard hitting of Wilson and Browne, the clever pitching of Lee and the fine fielding of Wiltse, Murray and Browne. Score:

Newark 0 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0 1 7 3

RED SOX SECOND 4, HARVARD 2

BOSTON, April 12.—In a slow and uninteresting game, the second team of the Boston American club inaugurated the local baseball season by defeating the Harvard varsity by the score of 4 to 2. The colleges held the veterans down to five scattered hits but costly errors and poor judgment gave away the game. The score:

Bos. 0 0 2 0 0 1 0 1 4 5 3
Har. 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 3 7 6

Batteries: Bidlet, McHale and Nunez; McKay, Babson and Reeves. Umpire—O'Reilly and Conroy.

PITTSBURG WON 7 to 2

DAYTON, O., April 12.—Pittsburg had little trouble winning from the local club yesterday afternoon 7 to 2. Gardner, who twirled the last four innings for the National league team, showed fine form. Carry, who played left field in the absence of Fred Clarke, made three two base hits, while Wagner failed to get a hit during the game.

STOCK MARKET

WAS FIRM AT THE CLOSE THIS AFTERNOON

Prices Hardened in the Closing Hour and Best Features of the Day Foretold—Several Stocks Were Foremost in the Rise

NEW YORK, April 12.—A mixture of gains and losses was recorded in opening sales in the stock market today.

Great Northern pfd, with a gain of 1/2, and Rock Island, with an advance of 1/2, were the strongest among the railway stocks. U. P. last 1/2.

Stocks which had shown a little heaviness at the outset stiffened a trifle but as there was no general response elsewhere, prices went off again. Pacific Telephone was actively dealt in and advanced a point.

Fluctuations through the morning were inconsequential. Almost the only business transacted was due to the evening up of contracts in preparation for the expected Easter holidays.

Business was at a standstill much of the time. The standard stocks at noon ruled at about the level of yesterday's close. Bonds were steady.

The stock market was without any special movement between twelve and one o'clock.

Sales of Pennsylvania began coincident with the announcement of an allotment of the huge stock issue and it went down a large fraction. Missouri Pacific also weakened to about the same extent but the rest of the list held well.

The market closed firm. Prices hardened in the closing hour to the best features of the day with U. P. Reading, Mo. Pac. and United States Steel foremost in the rise. Am. Steel Foundries improved 2 1/2.

Money Market

NEW YORK, April 12.—Prime mercantile paper 3 1/2-4 1/2 per cent. Sterling exchange firm at 48 1/2 for 60 day bills and at 48 3/4 for demand. Commercial bills 45 1/2-46 1/2. Government bonds steady. Railroad bonds irregular.

Against Granting of Liquor Licenses Received by Police Board

Law and Order League, Church Organizations and Mill Overseers Enter Protests — Police Officer Moore Retired on a Pension — Police Officer Was Suspended for Twelve Days

Vigorous protests against the granting of liquor licenses in various parts of the city, especially in the Greek colony and in the vicinity of Merrimack square, have been made to the board of police, and at last night's session of that body the greater portion of the meeting was devoted to the reading of the remonstrances from representatives of church organizations, mill officials and individuals. Owing to the number of remonstrances it was decided to confine the business of next Tuesday's meeting to the hearing of the remonstrants and also the petitioners for the saloon licenses.

Patrolman Louis F. A. Lemay was given a hearing on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, and after the board had considered the case, found the respondent guilty and ordered that he be suspended for 12 days.

Considerable routine business was

Kirk Street Church
The following communication from the board of deacons of the Kirk Street Congregational church was then read:

Lowell, Mass., April 10, 1911.
John J. Flaherty, Jr.,
Clerk of Board of Police Commissioners.

Dear Sir: At a meeting of the officers of the Kirk Street Congregational church, held Friday evening, April 7th, it was voted: "That we enter a remonstrance with the license commissioners against the granting of any liquor licenses in what is known as Merrimack square; from John street to Bridge street, and from Merrimack street to French street, and that the clerk be instructed to present such remonstrance."

As clerk of said body, I enter the above remonstrance and would suggest that you listen to the same at the hearing to be held April 18, before your commissioners, by the Federation of Churches, and we shall be present at that meeting.

Yours respectfully,
Samuel H. Thompson,
Clerk of Board of Deacons of Kirk Street Church.

Mill Officials Object

The officers and overseers of the Massachusetts Cotton mills sent in a communication remonstrating against the granting of a fourth class license to John Duff at 16 Merrimack square and a similar notice remonstrating against the granting of a license to Mr. Duff was sent by the Middlesex Machine Co.

Mrs. S. L. Clay and A. S. Hamilton, in a communication to the board, protested against granting a liquor license at 237 Moody street and 27 Race street, Phillips Rochette having applied for licenses at these places.

After the foregoing communications were read, the board voted to grant a hearing to all remonstrants on the evening of April 18th, at which time the petitioners for licenses against which protests have been made, will be present.

Placed on Pension List
The petition of Patrolman Francis E. Moore that he be relieved from active duty and transferred to the pension roll was then taken up. The following self-explanatory letter from Dr. Forster H. Smith, city physician, was read:

April 4, 1911.

To the Board of Police:
Dear Sirs—I examined Mr. Francis E. Moore, this afternoon, a year within a week, after the injury to his ankle, and eight months since my previous examination of him. While there has been a little improvement during the last eight months, yet I am of the opinion, today, that Mr. Moore will never recover proper use of his leg to enable him to do strenuous work, such as he may be called upon to do at any moment while on duty. I, therefore, recommend him to the pension roll.

Respectfully,
Forster H. Smith,
City Physician.

The board then voted to transfer the officer from active service to the pension roll, as provided in chapter 428 of the acts and resolves of 1909.

Patrolman Moore was appointed a patrolman in October 1909. On the night of April 10, 1910, while patrolling his beat on Bridge street, he slipped from steps and fractured his ankle. Since that time he has been unable to do active work in connection with the department.

Patrolman Lemay Suspended

The hearing of charges against Patrolman Louis G. A. Lemay was then taken up. The specific charge was that on Saturday, March 25, at about 10:35 p. m., he assaulted Adelard Levesque. William A. Hogan appeared for the complainant and James E. O'Donnell for the respondent.

The first witness called was Levesque who said he was walking through Moody street on the night in question, and when near the corner of Cabot street, the patrolman asked him where he was going. He told the officer that it was none of his business and said he would talk about what he pleased without any patrolman questioning him about it. Lemay then crossed the street, Levesque said, and struck him on the head, knocking him down. He said after he had got to his feet, Lemay struck him the second time.

The other witnesses for the complainant were Jean Bourre, Napoleon Labranche and Alphonse Levesque. Their testimony was to the effect that one night when Bourre was going home with his brother Officer Lemay had taken hold of Bourre's brother, Jean Bourre went to his assistance and was warned not to interfere. He did not do so. On the night that Levesque was assaulted, witnesses said, Lemay shouted across to Bourre, but Bourre did not hear him. Levesque was the man who answered him.

Officer Lemay said that he was patrolling his beat on the night in question. He heard profanity and looking across the street saw Levesque, Bourre and others and heard them profane some more. He went across to them and found them boisterous. He took hold of Levesque. It was slippery and Levesque fell down. He did not strike him, he said.

After the witnesses had been examined, the board voted to suspend Officer Lemay from duty from April 12 to 24.

The following minor licenses were granted:

FRENCH SENATE

HAD A LIVELY DISCUSSION OVER THE CHAMPAGNE QUESTION

PARIS, April 12.—The senate yesterday after a lengthy discussion of the serious situation which has arisen over the champagne question, adopted a resolution in favor of the suppression of all territorial delimitations as likely to provoke dissensions between the various sections of the country. A law was recently enacted excluding the department of Aube from the region, the wine of which can legally be designated champagne. This has resulted in demonstrations of protest in that department.

SHORTER SESSION PREFERABLE

There is an agitation in favor of limiting the session of the legislature to 100 days. The idea is a good one. With a shorter session a lot of the freak measures would be thrown out and the "milking" bills would have a short shrift.

TO PREVENT DROWNINGS IN CANALS

The appeal of Harry W. J. Howe for the safeguarding of children against drowning in our local canals, as read in the common council last night, should help to bring about some action by which precautionary measures will be adopted. Those parts of the canals that are not properly fenced should be attended to without delay. We are glad that the common council appointed a committee to take the matter up and see what can be done.

FOR MUNICIPAL MILK STATIONS

It is probable that the bill to permit cities of over 10,000 population to establish milk stations will become law in the near future. In the legislature last year the bill was withdrawn because it was learned that Governor Draper would veto it. This year the measure has but little opposition. Judging from the popularity of the milk station conducted by the Lowell Guild, the idea is favored in Lowell at least as at present conducted. It is not certain, however, that public opinion would favor a station conducted by the city government.

THE ROUTE TOO SHORT

The route of the parade for April 19 is so very short that it will be impossible for all the people who wish to see it to crowd into the space along the sidewalks. It is practically a march from the Middlesex street station to city hall. Why not take in a part of Belvidere, dropping the older men, if necessary, and let the younger men march over a route that will enable the people to see it without too much crowding. If the parade be as long as expected, the head will have reached Monument Square almost before the last company shall have started. That will not afford much chance of a military display.

Although there is a slight depression felt among cotton manufacturers on account of the possibility of tariff disturbance, yet in general the outlook is such as to inspire confidence for good business during the summer and better still during the fall and winter. A considerable number of Massachusetts mills omitted the regular dividends in the past year or two, unable longer to pursue the policy of drawing upon the reserve accumulated in prosperous times to keep up appearances. The high price of cotton and the tariff agitation are the chief factors that operate against this industry, but it is expected that conditions will be much improved by the fall and that the winter will bring a season of profitable activity.

COUNTERFEIT CHARITY

The beggar long ago discovered that a ticket to some other place where he can trouble us no more is the thing above all others which we give with the greatest cheerfulness to the applicant for aid. As a result an agency in a railroad town out of a total relief expenditure of $300 a year used $240 for railroad tickets to near-by communities.—The Survey.

This counterfeit charity is widely practised by towns and cities all over the country. It is taken advantage of by hobos who prefer a ride in a railroad train to a hike along a country road. Many of the men from neighboring states who arrive here "broke" and appeal to the charity department are able, after a time, to work the department for their fare to the place they want to reach. They may belong in Nashua or Lawrence, but if they want to go to Boston they will say they belong there and "want to get home." The game is being played so often on the officials that it is found useless and unprofitable.

By the explosion in the Banner mine in Alabama, on Saturday, 128 state convicts lost their lives. While the state may be severely censured for hiring the convicts into slavery in the mines, yet there is a question of finding them employment that is not easily solved. No American state should be open to the charge of imitating the system once in force in Siberia. One of the worst afflictions the state convict has to bear is idleness. The labor unions will object if convict labor be employed in competition with that of union men and hence the prisoners to a great extent are debarr'd from working profitably as they otherwise might. Many of them have families or dependent relatives who become charges upon the state. Thus the state in pursuance of its primitive policy and its prison rules holds convicts in idleness, while they might be made to support their families that are thrown upon the charity of the city or state.

There is here an opportunity to devise a system of profitable employment for convicts. It must not be of a cruel character such as is evidently adopted in the state of Alabama. Neither should it be of the chain gang kind where men are obliged to work while chained to one another. There should be some method of employment on state work by which the convicts could earn moderate wages and this should be sent to the dependents of the prisoner or else saved for him until the time of his release. It may be necessary in most cases to have a well equipped factory operated in connection with each prison so that the inmates can, if necessary, learn a trade by which they may be able to earn a living after leaving the prison. This is the ideal method. Some of our reformatories have such a system in operation with the very best results. This system might be extended so as to furnish a means of keeping the prisoners busy and at the same time enabling them to earn a little money, or else learn a useful trade. There is here a great field for prison reform, one of which would be a source of economy to the state and a godsend to the convicts.

SEEN AND HEARD

Sometimes a man decides just what he is going to do for his spring suit before he can see where the money to pay for it is coming from.

The harem skirt won't shock anybody who remembers the bicyclist girls of a dozen years ago in bloomers.

Pretty soon it will be time to put on the spring overcoat that was a fall overcoat when it was laid away at the beginning of winter.

YOUR DOG

Buy a dog and your money will buy love undivided that cannot be perfect passion and worship fed by a kick in the ribs or a pat on the head. Nevertheless it is hardly fair to risk your heart for a dog to tear.

When the fourteen years which Nature permits are closing in asthma, or tumor or fits. And the vet's unspoken prescription to both chambers, or loaded guns. Then you will find 'tis your own affair. But—give your heart for a dog to tear.

UNANSWERED LETTERS

These letters that I ought to write— Their haunting memory thrills Me with vague uneasiness. Like thoughts of New Year's bills. Too long have I neglected them. And now I see them there. All neatly looking up at me With reproachful air.

They haunt me in my waking hours. They haunt me in my dreams. I know to all my waiting friends My fault enormous seems. I ought to answer them. My white little strings down. Yet I don't feel like stringing down To write those letters now.

THE CALL OF THE QUAIL

In the morning, when the dew is just a twinkling on the grass, When the robins all are singing and the jay-birds giving "sass," And the flock of crows are cawing 'round the edges of the corn, And every one just feeling good to think that they were born, Then I hear a sound that thrills me, as it comes from hill and dale, And echoes down the valley—'tis the calling of the quail.

At noon-time, when the orchestra of crickets draw the bow, When the thrasher and the juncos join the chorus, don't you know, And you hear the bees-a-humming like a fiddle with one string, And the air is just a-throbbing with a soothing kind of ring,

There comes floating 'cross the meadow from the hazels near the swale, Out of cheer and woodland music, 'tis the calling of the quail. In the evening, when the shadows linger 'round the garden gate, And the turtle-dove is calling to its drowsy little mate, And the swallows twitter softly from their nests beneath the eaves, And the squirrels scold and chatter as they hide beneath the leaves, There comes from out the orchard, where, perch'd upon a rail, He sends his pleasant challenge—'tis the "good-night" of the quail.

When Senator Lodge the other day drafted a bill to provide for two United States district courts in Massachusetts it was rejected in the enumeration of the counties the little "County of Dukes County" was used instead of the simple phrase "Dukes County," says the Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript.

The senator's attention was called to what appeared to be an error in transcription and he at once explained that "County of Dukes County" is correct, officially and historically. "I got fooled on that one myself," said the senator, "and I never have forgotten the correct title. As a member of the Massachusetts legislature in 1859 I served on the committee on engrossed bills. One day a bill containing the phrase "County of Dukes County" and I took it to George A. Marden, who was then speaker, and suggested that there was an error. 'Oh, no,' said Marden, 'this is the official title. I looked the matter up and found he was right. That is the title to be found in the constitution of the commonwealth of Massachusetts and it is used elsewhere in the manual of the general court.'

ADVICE ABOUT THE SKIN

In the treatment and cure of eczema and other skin diseases two conditions are necessary. One is to exclude dust, germs and air from the diseased parts, and the other is to set up the healing process at the same time. The new medical compound, Cadum, accomplishes both these results so effectively that the itching is stopped soon after it is applied, and the sore parts heal up quickly. Cadum is just as effective in the cure of pimples, blotches, acne, herpes, eruptions, chafings, psoriasis, sores, etc. 10c and 25c per box.

"Hello Jim, are you getting ready to play the game? I suppose you are an expert at it now."

"Quite mistaken Claude, I haven't had a cue in my hand for a long while, but by the way Claude, what brings you here tonight? I thought you had given up your membership card. Is it not so?"

"Why no, and I can't see what led you to believe that I had given up the club. I admit that I've been keeping late hours for the past month or so, and that my wife is raising the dickens over it, but I assure you, my dear boy, I haven't the slightest idea of staying at home every night, and as long as the club remains in existence, I'll be one of the boys. But really Jim I'm at a loss to know what got that in your head about me resigning from the club. What is anyone telling you stories?"

"Well, I don't know if you would call them stories, but I certainly heard something funny about you. Say old man, how did you enjoy yourself the other night?"

"What night?"

"The night of the reception."

"Oh, I understand now, you heard about it, I suppose, so I may as well tell you. Yes Jim, I had a splendid time, and I can't help laughing when I think of it. If you had only seen my wife the next morning."

"What is the story anyway? I only heard a little about it."

"Well, on the night of the reception, a number of us were feeling very good at midnight, and the fun was continued for hours later, or perhaps I should say earlier. You know, when men get talking at that hour, they do not find the time passing. Anyway, I left at twelve a. m. with Tom and Percy, and we were sports enough to hire a taxi. As it was, my home was reached first and naturally I invited my two mates to stop with me a few minutes, and this they did. You

However we paid the chauffeur and entered the house. "Is this you Claude?" came forth a voice from upstairs. "Yes, (hic) love, and (hic) I'm coming right up." "You'd better," responded my better half. And up I went, and forgetting my two mates in the parlor, I went to bed. But this is not the funniest part of it. My wife did not know about Percy and Tom's presence in the house, and you can imagine her surprise next morning when she came down stairs and discovered the two birds dead asleep. Say it was funny. Percy was sitting in a rocker while opposite him was Tom in an arm chair. They were snoring. My wife retreated upstairs before she had time to see who the men were. She was badly frightened and at first took the men for burglars. I came down to drive them out but alas it would require a detachment of five police officers.

Talk about being embarrassed. "I—or yes—these are my friends." "Your friends, and what are they doing here?" At that minute Tom arose and turning to my wife said "Three more Martians." "What?" she yelled. Percy then opened his eyes and said: "Me one eye opener." I thought he needed two eye-openers. Well, that was the end of it. Percy and Tom made a dash for the door, but the taxi was not there and both beat a hasty retreat in spite of an occasional side step to preserve their equilibrium.

"There never was another word mentioned about it, but as matters looked serious I took the pledge, and now I am on the wagon."

"Well it was for your own good after all wasn't it?"

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Dr. William Kirk, associate professor of social and political science at Brown university, has resigned to take up the duties of general secretary of the United Charities of Rochester, N. Y. Professor Kirk will begin his new work about June 1st.

The new position will involve a double task for in addition to the directorship of the United Charities movement, Dr. Kirk will become full professor of economics and sociology at the University of Rochester, and in that capacity will organize a department covering the political and social sciences. His appointment to the position of general secretary of the United Charities has been announced by the committee appointed by the Rochester chamber of commerce to investigate the needs of the city along the lines of greater co-operation and efficiency in the direction of charitable effort.

After careful examination of organized charity in many of the cities of the United States and Europe, and after considering about 150 more as possible director of the new work, the committee choose Dr. Kirk to undertake this most important part of what has come to be known as "The Rochester Movement" for civic betterment.

The plans of the committee were approved some time ago by the existing organizations for charitable work, and Dr. Kirk expects to have the full support of all charitable agencies in the city. Dr. Kirk has been on the Brown University faculty since 1905, coming to Providence from Johns Hopkins university in 1905. His experience with practical problems of charitable work has been wide.

King George has offered White Lodge in London to Prince and Princess Alexander of Teck, and they will take up their residence there as soon as the present extensive alterations have been completed. Some time ago Lord Farquhar intimated that he did not desire to retain possession of this residence, which will suit Prince Alexander admirably, who finds that his military duties require him to be in London more often than before, and also that his present quarters, in Henry III. Tower, at Windsor, are getting too cramped. Thus White Lodge so long associated with the name of Teck, will once more be the home of that family.

Four casts, modeled by Dr. R. Tail McKenzie, director of the department of physical education at Pennsylvania, have been sent to the International Hygiene exposition, which will be held this summer in Dresden. REPLY TO BISHOP NEELY Boston, Mass., April 10, 1911.

Editor of The Lowell Sun, Lowell, Mass.

Dear Sir—In your issue of the 10th, Bishop Thos. B. Neely of New Orleans, is reported to have said, "Christian Science is two per cent. philosophy, 3 per cent. some kind of religion." Last year at the Methodist conference in the vicinity, Bishop Neely made the statement that the papers reported, "Christian Science contained three per cent. of philosophy and two per cent. of religion." According to the report, the gentleman is able to see 1 per cent. more of religion in Christian Science this year than he did last year, and this convinces us that at the end of 87 years he will without doubt be presiding to say that Christian Science has 100 per cent. religion in it. One per cent. per year is rather slow growth, but that is the bishop's affair.

Since Bishop Neely made his attack upon Christian Science a year ago, at Allabrook, Mass., thousands of sick folks have been healed through Christian Science, thousands of sinners have been reclaimed. I personally have seen several drunkards who have been reformed through Christian Science during the past year and we think it is proper to ask our friend "for which of those works do ye stone?" In the Master's day a "tree" was "known by its fruit." Is it possible that we have reached an age when a religion which constantly bears good fruit is to be condemned simply because it differs somewhat from the religion of others? Whatever else may be said, it is a fact that Christian Scientists love the Bible and study it more than they did before they had Christian Science. They love the Christian religion and it is anomalous to suppose that this increased interest in God's word is due to the study of a book which advocates the opposite of the Bible. Yours truly, the state. It is interpreted by many as a recognition by the federal government of the seriousness of the rising tide and the necessity of complying, at least in a measure, with the demands of the populace.

According to the Hermosillo advices, mass meetings named as the popular candidate for governor Alexander Lacy, a member of an old family which has been neutral throughout the present conflict. Licenciado Talle Lopez Del Castillo, a lawyer of Sonora, was named for vice governor. Castillo has not been identified with administration measures. The government will open the polls April 23 and will send out instructions as to how to vote and guarantee a free ballot. This will be the first open election in the state of Sonora since President Diaz's election. Following the uprising which occurred at the time a military governor was appointed and he has been maintained in office ever since, the so-called elections being merely equivalent to reappointments.

Gen. Torres was nominated for governor and Dr. Fernando Aguilar for vice governor two months ago, the people having no choice in their selection. Dr. Aguilar's withdrawal as a candidate accompanied that of Gen. Torres.

BANGED THE BALL

New First Baseman Did a Batting Stunt at Spalding Park This Morning — Magee Arrives in Town From Philadelphia Dia- mond

There's one man among the raw recruits who went to Spalding park this morning to practise who will get a careful looking over before the can be applied by the management, and he is P. John Dugan, of Atlantic, Mass., a little burg just south of Boston principally noted within the past few years as being adjacent to Squantum, where the aviators availed.

P. John came to Lowell to try out as a first baseman and this morning was given a chance with the army of others who assembled on the grounds. In his turn P. John went to the bat and one of the budding pitchers started sending all kinds of benders over to him. P. John waited until the psychological moment. Then he swung his mighty bat. It caught the sphere full in the nose and away goes the sphere high over the heads of the outfielders down to the big "Bull" in centre field which every ball player tries his best but in vain to hit. The ball struck the bull squarely in the midst with a resounding thud and then fell to the ground. That bull has been there a year and there was a standing offer of $50 to anyone who would hit it in a game. They hit all around it but never connected with the animal, and hence it has remained for P. John Dugan to enjoy the distinction of being the first man to swat the animal on the home grounds. Here's hoping that P. John can do that in a league game.

How They Look

"Some of that bunch can't play ball as well as I can," remarked Manager Gray on his return from Spalding park this morning. But then there were 45 men out there which doesn't include all who are to report, and of course out of such a crowd, one must expect to find some phoebos. Of the fixtures, the only ones yet to report are Barrows, who will captain the team; Duval and Wolfgang, the pitchers, and Jimmie Magee. Yount has received leave of absence until the 15th; Cooney will be on hand Saturday, while Fluharty is expected any old time. Jake Boultie is said to be on the way. The recruits put in a couple of hours at practice this morning and they must have been hitting some or standing close to the fence for they lost eight balls. At noon they were chased to dinner with orders to report this afternoon.

Jimmie Magee Arrives

Jimmie Magee, Lowell's crack outfielder, arrived in Lowell today looking like a fighting cock. For the past two weeks he has been with the Phillies on the spring practice trip, his brother, Sherwood Magee, being one of the batting stars of the team. Jimmie went out to Spalding park to look them over this morning and upon seeing the bunch out in uniform remarked: "Gee, we've got more than Connie Mack and Doolin put together." Jimmie did not go to Panama this winter and spent the early spring in training with his brother so that he is thoroughly acclimated and in fine shape. He inquired for his old room-mate, Scott Fluharty, right off the reel and was informed that Fluh is expected any day.

Practice Games

Manager Gray has arranged the following schedule of practice games:
April 15—Lowell vs. St. Anselm's college.
17—Syracuse.
18—Syracuse.
19—A. M. Albany.
20—P. M. Utica.
21—Utica.
22—Albany.
24—Opening of N. E. season. Worcester playing at Spalding park.

PATTEN WEALTH

To be Used In Plague War

CHICAGO, April 12.—James A. Patten, the multimillionaire grain and cotton operator, has taken steps to rid himself of at least $2,000,000 of his fortune in a fight on the "white plague." Exercising the same business sagacity and energy that enabled him in a few years to amass a fortune estimated to be not much less than $20,000,000, he has begun a personal campaign of "social service," indicated by the donation of $2,000,000 within the last 6 months for charities and public works which particularly appeal to him. Mr. Patten has set about the disbursement of his wealth in financing the biggest war on disease that has ever been known.

His gift of $500,000 to Northwestern University for medical research into the prevention and cure of tuberculosis, it became known yesterday, is to be increased to $2,000,000, so greatly is Mr. Patten interested in the subject. This disposes of $4,000,000 of the Patten fortune. Details of Mr. Patten's plans came only through his friends. He has refused to make known the nature and extent of his benefactions.

Fatally Burned on Lobster Smack at Rockland, Maine

ROCKLAND, Me., April 12.—Captain Stanley of this city died today from the effects of terrible burns received last night at Vinal Haven on his lobster smack, the Pauline. He was starting a fire in the galley with kerosene when there was an explosion and the contents of the can were scattered over him. He rushed on deck, shrieking for help and attracted the attention of people on shore. They shouted to him to jump overboard but he evidently was dazed for the only thing he did was to jump around his body to quench the flames. He was 27 years old and leaves a widow and child.

MAYOR IS SUED

Salem Police Official Seeks to Recover $20,000

SALEM, April 12.—Another chapter in the police muddle here in which Sergeant J. J. Carr is seeking promotion as captain was written today when Carr brought a suit for $20,000 for alleged libel and defamation of character against Mayor Adams. Recently Mayor Adams gave in writing to the civil service commission his reasons why he should not be called upon to appoint Sergeant Carr as a captain of the police force and it is on this communication that Sergeant Carr bases his suit. An attachment has been placed on the residence of Mayor Adams. This is the second suit of this nature that has been brought in the police department here. The other suit was instituted by Inspector Dennis against Alderman E. Howard Percival for alleged slander. Dennis is at the present time holding the office that Carr desires, having been appointed by Mayor Adams by authority of the civil service commission as temporary police captain.

BODY OF WOMAN

WAS FOUND IN HER HOME TODAY

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., April 12.—Lying at the foot of the stairs in her home, the body of Mrs. Anne Littlefield, 73 years old, was found by Cortland Westcott, a hired man, who lived with the aged woman. The woman was fully dressed and it is believed that the body had lain where it was found all night. An inquest was made this forenoon but was suspended until the arrival of her son, Clarence Littlefield, from Providence this afternoon.

NARROW ESCAPE

GEORGE HOYT OF HAVERHILL SAVED FROM DROWNING

HAVERHILL, April 12.—George Hoyt, a shoemaker, narrowly escaped drowning in the Merrimack river near Washington Square park yesterday afternoon, being rescued by three workmen from a factory nearby.

Hoyt was walking along the wharf, when the embankment gave way and he was precipitated into the water. He was carried along by the swollen stream and was caught in an eddy.

The employees in a nearby factory threw a large piece of plank to Hoyt, effecting his rescue after Hoyt had gone down once.

Common Council Takes Action and Appoints Committee — Refused to Confirm H. F. Carr—$800 for Playgrounds

If the members of the common council are as much given to procrastination in their private business as they are in the performance of the city's business they are losing a whole lot of valuable time. Once upon a time there was a common council president who refused to stand for such delay and the result was that meetings during his time as president were called on time and the members learned that if they wanted to be counted in at roll call they had to get there on time. But, alas, the reign of this particular president is a thing of the past and now the greater portion of the time that should be devoted to the city's business is spent in idle quibbling and political squabbling.

Last night's meeting was scheduled for 8 o'clock and that is the regular hour for city council meetings, but the meeting was not called until 9:52. The business of the caucuses held must have been very important for upon convening a few minor papers were cleared away and one ballot taken for park commissioner. Then the council adjourned, and the able statesman walked unobtrusively away.

The appointment of Henry F. Carr for park commissioner to succeed Percy Parker was refused confirmation.

A communication from Frank K. Stearns asking $300 for salary due him for services as police commissioner was referred to the committee on claims.

An order for $800, introduced by Councilman Chapman, for improvement of playgrounds was passed with the amendment that it include any new playgrounds that may be added during the summer.

A resolution introduced by Councilman Tracey, asking the park commission to secure figures on a tract of land at the junction of Whipple and Watson streets for playground purposes, was adopted.

Councilman Coughlin's order relative to the appointment of a committee to arrange for the safeguarding of the canals with emergency boats, ladders and fences was favorably acted upon and Councilmen Coughlin, Achin and Davis were appointed to the committee. In speaking of the order Mr. Coughlin said:

The records of drowning casualties for past years have been appalling. It is doubtful if Venice, with rivers for streets has had as many cases in that line as we have had. For years, throughout the city there has been a vague discussion as to the best way of preventing such accidents but nothing in the proper line of action was forthcoming, and six or seven weeks ago I interviewed Supt. Welch, his honor, the mayor, and numerous citizens, and while from their talk I felt that I saw several ways possible to handle the subject, I still felt that a committee could look well into the matter and go over the ground very carefully and accomplish grand results.

This committee will need sand and backbone to see this order pushed through to a finish.

Men struggle to accumulate money and the very successful ones band together and form into powerful corporations who in the declaring of dividends or profit sharing, place all else as nothing; even human life is only a side issue. This committee will undoubtedly have to confront such men, so I say they should have backbone and stamina.

Mr. Chairman, this body is an ideal body and if they do nothing else all year but to see this order to its proper enactment they will go down to posterity as having performed something extremely worthy.

I feel Mr. Chairman, it would be an insult to the intelligence of any man to ask him if he would vote in favor of having this committee appointed, for every man here has a good heart and a Christian conscience.

Mr. Coughlin then read a strong appeal from Harry W. J. Howe, of the board of charities, for the safe guarding of the rivers and in which it was stated that nearly every one of the lives lost in the canals during the past 75 years could have been averted had the canals been properly fenced, and that more lives are swallowed up in our unfenced waterways each year than had been blotted out on the railroad crossings for the abolition of which a million dollars is being expended.

Mr. Howe's communication was in part as follows:

As the springtime nears, we will soon begin to record the season's usual accidental drownings in our canals, because human lives have not been safeguarded and the perilous waters of the city not properly fenced.

Let there be memorial tablets containing the names of the hundreds of canal victims, and beside the portraits of John A. Lowell and Kirk Boott, the founders of this great manufacturing center, let there be a portrait appropriately designed and hung on the walls of the city council chambers, a picture of a frantic broken-hearted mother, standing on the bank of a canal, her feeble arms outstretched, as she stands there sobbing for the beloved child that has gone down and perished in the dark surging waters before her. Then beneath that tablet let there be written, "Who is responsible?"

The canals penetrate into the very heart of our city. They flow through the most congested districts. They are owned and operated by powerful influential moneyed interests which have been important factors in making Lowell the city that it is today, commercially.

But by the utter indifference of the men in authority and the entire disregard of the value of human life, these canals have for the past half century or more been unprotected and many hundreds of young lives have through

accident been blotted out and sacrificed, homes brought to grief and hearts saddened, because someone responsible has not taken proper care and seen to it that the banks of our city's waterways were properly fenced.

The management of a large financial corporation or the officials of this city of Lowell in authority should be obliged by an aroused public sentiment to close those "death traps" throughout the entire city. The officials of the city of Lowell have in past years been recreant in not placing the important value on human life that they should, and who is the city of Lowell? Is it the powerful financial corporation, indifferent to the value of human life and the welfare of the people of this city, whom city authorities it may be in days gone by, have feared to demand that the lives of the youth of their city should be protected from these open "pit-falls" because it necessitated an expenditure of a few thousand dollars on the part of a wealthy corporation? No! The city of Lowell represents the father toiling in our mills, our factories and our shops. The men and women who are grinding out the dividends for the owners, many of whom reside out of our own city.

The city of Lowell represents the sacrificial mother, quietly engaged in the hard routine of the household duties of the home; the men and women in every walk of life; the children growing up, attending our schools, the future men and women, soon to assume the responsibilities of home and citizenship. This human tragedy has been going on for years, permitted, because of cupidity, stupidity and brutal indifference and neglect of duty, and the man or woman of Lowell who will not protest in consequence of these tragedies is without public or personal conscience.

A pall of gloom has hung over many hundreds of families of the lowly people of this city who have been without influence, and their voices could not be

Nearly everyone of the lives lost in the canals during the past seventy-five years could have been averted, had those canals been properly fenced.

If one-half dozen of the hundreds of unfortunate children who have gone to a watery grave through these open traps of death, had been the offspring of parents with money and influence, instead of the children of the humble, poor workman with limited influence, there would be today a ten foot picket fence along every foot of our canal banks. Child life is no sweeter or dearer, nor is parental love more touching to the parent living in your residential section or mine, than to the heart of the father and mother who make their home in the poorer districts. The child's life is just as precious to the father and mother living in the hovels of a twelve-storied block in "Little Canada" as the little angel who graces and brightens the cultured and palatial home in our suburbs.

A million of dollars is being expended in our city abolishing grade crossings, principally in order to safeguard human life, and more lives are swallowed up in our unfenced waterways each year than have been blotted out on these railroad crossings in a half-century.

In conclusion Mr. Howe appealed for action to prevent drowning accidents, concluding with these lines:

"What is the answer, ye men that have power? Do something for God's sake,—this is the hour. Don't preach and investigate, Wake up and do! Flesh and blood are both crying to you!"

The petitioners for two additional rooms at the Bartlett school were given leave to withdraw.

The vote for confirmation of Henry F. Carr as a member of the park commission was defeated by a vote of 14 to 13. Those voting against were Achin, Berard, Bowers, Chadwick, Chapman, Cheney, Delaronde, Fulton, General, Randall, C. B. Rogers, J. J. Rogers, Taylor and Whitte.

TARGET PRACTICE

SUM OF $250 TO BE PAID COMPANY G

The committee on military affairs met last night and voted to recommend the payment of $250 to Company G for target practice. The matter was explained by members of the company. It was another case of Alderman Connors to the rescue. The informed the committee that the superintendent of lands and buildings had been voted the sum of $250 by the appropriations committee for Company G and later it was announced that the bill would be paid the 10th of next month.

RUSSIA OBJECTS

To American Railways in Asia Minor

ST. PETERSBURG, April 12.—That Russia is opposed to American railway projects in Asia Minor is for the first time officially acknowledged in an interview which the editor of the Novoe Vremya has had with the acting minister of foreign affairs, M. Neratoff. The minister informed the editor that Russia regarded the recent acquisition of a railroad outlet at Alexandretta by Germany with indifference, as Alexandretta is outside the direct sphere of Russian interests.

"On being asked why Russia, according to reports, had intervened and insisted that Turkey reject the American railroad project of securing an outlet at Mersina, the minister replied that the American proposals introduced into Asia Minor an entirely new element, which not only considerably complicated the railroad problem, but affected the general political situation in which Russia was interested.
